Six Warships Lost In Convoys

By EDWARD W. BEATTIE

LONDON, July 3.—(BUP)—The British Admiralty and the Polish naval office today said that six Allied warships, including the British light cruiser Hermione, had been lost in convoy operations. Details of the battle in which the losses were sustained were not revealed.

The Polish announcement dealt only with the loss of the destroyer Orp Kujawiak, while the British admiralty told of the loss of the Hermione and four destroyers.

Great Britain now has lost 21 cruisers and 83 destroyers in the war.

It was recalled that on June 23, Deputy Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee told the house of commons that during a convoy battle in the Mediterranean the British had lost one cruiser, four desers and two escort vessels.

Beattie

The Italian high command on June 15 said that in attacks on two British convoys fleet units had sunk seven ships and damaged nine others. The next day it was admitted that Italy had lost one cruiser..

REDUCE ITALIAN FLEET

On June 17, the British reported without disclosing details that with recent losses in the Mediterranean the Italian fleet of eight battleships had been reduced to two.

The British destroyers lost were the Hasty, Beduoin, Grove and Airedale.

Informed sources said the losses probably occurred over a wide area of the Mediterranean while reinforcements were being convoyed to Malta. They recalled that the Admiralty had warned that heavy losses were to be expected and said that the United Nations were paying a tremendous price to regain control of the island bulwark.

This price included the loss of the battleship Barham, torpedoed Nov. 25, 1941, but on the credit side was the virtual wiping out of Benito Mussolini's fleet.

An Italian eight-inch cruiser, two destroyers and a submarine were sunk and a battleship—one of the few Mussolini has left—was torpedoed in the convoy battles.

Today's War Moves

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

Copyright, 1942, by the British United Press and The Edmonton Bulletin

The checking of Marshal Erwin Rommel's drive towards Alexandria, even if only temporary, gives at least ground for hope that the Imperials have mustered the strength to stop him in the one area that offers the best chance of halting him.

That is the 40-mile coastal gap between Al Alamein and the Qattara depression. Here his headlong advance has been slowed. Today's more cheerful news by no means indicates that the tide has turned or that the crisis is any less grave.

It does mean, however, that the Germans have not broken through,

BRITISH TRY TO EXPLOIT SUCCESS

Decisive Desert Battle Now Raging In Egypt

By EDWARD KENNEDY

CAIRO, July 3.—(AP)—The Battle of Egypt was rejoined with unrelenting fury today west of El Alamein in the bottleneck of the coastal approach to the Nile valley, with the resurgent British 8th Army striving to exploit its first successful counterstroke since the Axis invasion of Egypt started.

Following their repulse in the El Alamein area yesterday the Axis forces fell back to positions some three or four miles to the west to regroup.

The German and Italian forces under Rommel were forced to retreat last evening after a general assault on El Alamein, less than 70 miles short of their main goal, Alexandria, was crushed.

The battle seemed to have been constricted to the northern sector, in the immediate vicinity of El Alamein, and there were no indications of enemy movements on the edge of the Qattara depression.

FORM BOTTLENECK

Qattara, with its supposedly impassable terrain, lies some 30 miles inland. It and the Mediterranean shore form the sides of the bottleneck through which any eastward invasion of the rich Nile valley must pass.

Yesterday the British forces, now being considerably reinforced, struck at the flanks of the Axis drive on El Alamein, and with nightfall the R.A.F., buttressed by the South African Air Force and the United States Army Air Force, struck out anew at the enemy's immediate rear, as well as vital ports for supplies and reinforcements.

The R.A.F. and United States Air Forces made one of the heaviest bombardments of Tobruk, Libyan port.

AXIS SUFFERS LOSSES

Throughout yesterday's battle fighting planes and dive bombers shuttled over the land forces, providing invaluable backing for the defenders and attacking Rommel's concentrations. It could be assumed that this offensive continued today.

British headquarters said the enemy had suffered sharp losses and declared British defence positions at El Alamein, some 65 miles from Alexandria, were holding firm.

POSITIONS INTACT

The Axis retreat, a communique said, followed a day of heavy fighting during which Rommel launched an assault from the west on the British line at El Alamein.

"Our mobile and armored forces counter-attacked the enemy flanks, inflicting losses," the bulletin reported, "and after an armored battle the enemy withdrew, leaving our positions intact."

Advices from the front indicated British reinforcements being hurled into the struggle had played an important part in the flanking operations, which were part of a carefully-laid defence plan.

One British column, composed of tanks and mobile artillery, was said to have swept widely around Rommel's right flank late yesterday

Canadians Take Part In Heavy Assault On Bremen

By ALLAN NICKLESON

LONDON, July 3.—(CP)—Scores of Canadians helped the R.A.F. smash at the remaining vital points of Bremen in a "very heavy" attack last night, it was disclosed today. Canadian aerial gunners shot down at least one of the numerous Nazi night fighters that challenged the attackers.

The Canadians agreed it was the most satisfying of recent raids on Bremen and said fires were burning so fiercely when they reached the target that bombing the port city was like "aiming at a patchwork quilt."

It was the third blasting attack on Bremen in a week. In the first, 1,000 planes poured death and destruction on the important docks and warehouses June 26.

Thirteen raiders did not return.

"The weather was good and many fires were left burning," the air ministry said. "One enemy night fighter was destroyed."

The Canadian crews said their gunners were more active than for some time because of the presence of many enemy fighter planes.

A long engagement between a Messerschmitt 110 and a Wellington captained by Flt. Sgt. Laurence Swanson of Edmonton ended when the Canadian crew saw the Nazi plane disappear in a long dive with smoke pouring from its engines.

Flying with Swanson were Flt. Sgt. K. Crosby of Yarmouth, N.S., and Sgt. Pat Murphy of Halifax whose trigger finger sent the Nazi reeling. Murphy said he did not know whether the Nazi plane was badly hit, and its destruction was not claimed.

RAID AIR FIELDS

Nazi airfields in Belgium and the Netherlands were singled out as the targets of other raids and coastal command Hudson bombers attacked German shipping off the Dutch coast, it was announced.

IN EGYPT'S DESERT

"Jock Columns" Make Nights Hours Of Terror For Germans

By RICHARD D. McMILLAN

Copyright 1942 by British United Press and The Edmonton Bulletin

IN A PILL BOX POSITION IN THE BRITISH FRONT LINE, Egypt, July 2, 10 a.m.—(BUP)—The battle for the Nile is blazing and an encouraging part of the blaze comes from enemy tanks, planes and supply dumps which are burning out in the desert.

British Imperial "Jock Columns," a new development in the fighting, are making these night hours of terror for the enemy advanced forces.

McMillan

The tough New Zealanders, at this point where I write, have taken their artillery out into no man's land, far beyond the lines, the better to pick their targets.

I saw the Jock Columns move out last night. They are named for the late Jock Campbell, V.C., idol of every man in the eighth army.

They gathered in the front line and moved out, zig-zagging over the trails in the desert dust bowl.

WILD SHOOT-UP

They crept through the British and the enemy's mine fields, spreading out over a wide area as they reached the enemy lines.

Then they spent the night in a wild shoot-up, spreading fire and terror in territory filled with enemy troops, and in one raid on an airdrome destroyed two grounded Axis planes.

They caught the enemy completely by surprise, and were through with one objective and on to another before the startled Axis troops could hit back.

The New Zealanders moved their field guns out into no man's land at twilight and started potting.

Several of the enemy tanks blazed throughout last night. Those of their crews who were not burned were killed by sub-machine gun fire as they ran from the flames, trying to escape to their own lines.

WIND SPREADS FLAMES

The flames from the tanks were made even more infernal because a strong, hot wind, blowing in from the sea, caught them and spread them to fuel-oil and gasoline tank-trucks.

By day the enemy have been throwing out advance columns beyond their main force until no man's land is less than one mile wide at parts of this 40-mile line between the vivid green along the Mediterranean and the barren aridity of the dried-up dust-covered salt marshes where the Qattara depression forms a natural anti-tank barrier protecting the route to Cairo.

At night the battle line looks like that I saw in France in the last World War. Verey lights of many colors sizzle and flare. Airplanes of both sides drop flares in profusion so they can single out ground formations and permit their men to watch for a sudden night march by the other side.

UNCANNY SET-UP

Occasionally there is a burst of machine gun fire as planes fight a grim midnight battle, or the anti-aircraft guns blaze up.

It is uncanny. We all know the great battle is on yet at times there is a calm out of harmony with the event.

I watched this morning while a party of the Cameron Highlanders, some wearing tin hats, others their cocky Balmoral caps, marched off as if on parade over the hump-backed hill along which the coastal road runs, on their way to the white-flecked sea to bathe and return to the front line.

$20,500 Grants Reported Here For University

Three United States institutions have made gifts to the University of Alberta totalling $20,500 to assist in various university activities, it was reported here Friday by Dr. Robert Newton, president.

A sum of $15,000 has been received from the Kellog Foundation, Battle Creek, Mich., $10,000 of the total being provided as grants-in-aid to medical students in any year in the accelerated courses. The entire sum has been allocated in grants or loans.

Dental students will also receive a total of $5,000 from the Foundation to be given those taking accelerated courses.

ROCKEFELLER AID

The Rockefeller Foundation has provided a grant of $4,000 to be used for the encouragement of dramatic art at the university and elsewhere in Alberta.

A gift of $1,500 has been received from the Carnegie Foundation of New York to be used for work in weaving, textiles, modelling and pottery at the Banff School of Fine Arts. Another $1,000 will be provided for this work by the Foundation next year.

Metal Plant Is Tied Up By Strikers

BEAUHARNOIS, Que., July 3.—(CP)—A strike of the 600 employees of Alloys and Metals Limited was announced today by a company official who said that production would be halted for two to three weeks should the plant's metal pots "freeze" within the next 24 hours due to lack of operation.

"The situation is serious," said Robert Turnbull, company vice-president, as he announced the 600 men went on strike last night without, he said, advising company officials.

"Our plant will be shut down for two to three weeks if the pots "freeze" — and they will "freeze" within 24 hours if not attended to. It will take a couple of weeks to clean them out."

Turnbull said the company had advised the Dominion department of labor of the strike, and added that the men had gone on strike without any preliminary negotiation with the company.

"So far as we could find out—just a few moments ago—they are apparently out for higher wages," he continued. "Right now, they are picketing the plant and won't let anyone enter."

OTTAWA, July 3.—(CP)—A labor department spokesman today termed "illegal" the strike of 600 employees of Alloys and Metals Ltd., at Beauharnois, Que., which was announced today by an official of the company.

Home On Leave

FO. Harold Sutton, D.F.C., R.C.A.F., former city star athlete and holder of the Distinguished Flying Cross, is spending a short leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Sutton of 10246 Wadhurst Road. He has been overseas for 16 months.

Rugby Star Hit Hun Ships In French Ports

Holder of the coveted Distinguished Flying Cross, won for daring attacks on German warships in French ports last summer, Frying Officer Harold R. Sutton, D.F.C., well known Edmonton rugby football star, is home on leave after 16 months overseas with the R.C.A.F.

The Edmonton flying ace, who is spending 10 days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Sutton, of 10246 Wadhurst Road, is mighty glad to see Edmonton again, but despite his thrillingly hazardous exploits above the clouds, insists bombing of German warships in broad daylight brought no greater thrills than the stirring battles on the Edmonton gridiron with the Eskimos.

IS MODEST

Concerning the actual raids in which he won the D.F.C. FO. Sutton modestly refused to talk.

Instead, he spoke enthusiastically about the prospects of golf at the Mayfair Golf and Country Club, where there are no obstructions against enemy plane landings or bomb craters. He has played some golf overseas, he said, but is looking forward to a few rounds on the home courses.

He arrived in Edmonton Thursday night.

BOMBED WARSHIPS

PO. Sutton was one of five Canadian airmen to be awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for daring daylight attacks on German warships in French harbors last August. The ships attacked were the Scharnhorst and Gneisenau that later escaped through a mist-filled English Channel back to German ports.

He was well known to Edmonton sport fans before enlisting in the R.C.A.F. He was a star halfback with the junior and senior Eskimo rugby football squads and was also a promising tennis player, of the Glenora Club.

He attended Oliver and Garneau schools and was employed by an accounting firm before joining the air force.

He won the D.F.C. for gallantry in an attack upon the German war vessels at Brest, Lapalice and Cherbourg.

Great Tank Struggle In Kursk Area

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, July 3.—(AP)—The greatest tank battle of the current German offensive, with hundreds of machines engaged on both sides, is in progress east of Kursk while 75 and 100 miles to the south Nazi shock troops are attempting to outflank and separate the Russian central and southern armies, Soviet military dispatches reported today.

The battle on the Kursk front began Wednesday morning with an attack by about 200 German tanks, the dispatches said.

These were hurled back, and then the real mass engagement began at noon that day.

TREMENDOUS LOSSES

The Germans have suffered tremendous losses, and in the thick of battle the Red Army has managed to increase the fortifications of its already-strong positions, said Red Star, the army newspaper.

Few details were given, but the Russians were said to have recaptured several villages.

Kursk, a key front in the present conflict, is about 280 miles south of Moscow and 125 miles north of Kharkov.

To the south, the new German thrusts were in the Belgorod and Volchansk sectors, 50 and 35 miles north and northeast of Kharkov.

NO REAL GAINS

At these points, roughly midway in the battleline from Kursk to Kupyansk, the Germans were admitted to hold numerical superiority. Before Volchansk the Germans were acknowledged to have broken through temporarily at some points with small groups of tanks.

Red Star said they had made no real gains, however, being exterminated or driven back to their previous positions.

At Belgorod the Germans were reported thrown back to their original starting place by the fierce resistance of Soviet artillery and infantry supported by tanks and planes.

German losses in both areas were described as "extremely heavy."

A Russian communique at noon declared that at the Crimean city of Sevastopol, which the Germans claim to have taken after a bitter siege and assault, "fighting continued in the streets."

Edmonton Pilot Gets Decoration For Courageous Flying Overseas

By FRANCIS FISHER

AN R. C. A. F. STATION SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 3. — (BUP) — Two flight sergeants of the Royal Canadian Air Force, Laurence Swanson of Edmonton and Knowles Crosby of Yarmouth, N.S., were awarded Distinguished Flying Medals today for their feat of bringing home their riddled Wellington bomber after battling flames, night fighters and mechanical trouble during a raid on the Ruhr on June 17.

When Swanson set the big "Wimpey" down in a field of English barley that night of June 17, it ended a hectic and hair-raising trip such as would keep the average young dare-devil satisfied for the rest of his life.

Flt.-Sgt. Laurence "Swede" Swanson, of Edmonton, took off from his base and flew straight for the Ruhr. His navigator, Flt.-Sgt. Phillip "Brick" Bright, Toronto, laid his true course and at the appointed time they arrived over the target area and dropped their bombs—receiving no worse damage than two flak hits on their aircraft.

Then the first of their troubles began.

OXYGEN FREEZES

The rear gunner, Sgt. Jeff White, Ontario, making his first operational flight, passed out, due to the freezing of his oxygen. Soon afterwards, when crossing over Holland at 15,000 feet, they ran into a load of flak which tore right through the bottom of the plane, missing the navigator and wireless operator, Flt.-Sgt. K. "Bing" Crosby, Yarmouth, N.S., by inches, but catching the second pilot who received severe wounds.

A moment later another load of flak tore through the starboard side of the plane. In a few seconds the whole under part of the aircraft was on fire. "Swede" put the plane into a steep dive as it stalled, while "Brick" and "Bing" ran forward to extinguish the fire.

By this time much of the fabric covering the fuselage had burned away and the two had to hold onto the spars of the plane as they stamped at the flames with their feet. They succeeded in kicking the flaming floor through the bomb doors.

Flt.-Sgt. George Wilkinson, of Ottawa, almost put his foot in it—he was acting as front gunner and had not heard the pilot's order to stand by to bail out. The communication system was disrupted by a load of flak.

He stepped from the turret and

STRIVE TO DISORGANIZE SOVIET ARMY

Germany Abandons Hope Of Crushing Russia This Year

Nazis Driving Hard To Stabilize Winter Line, Free Men For New Front

By THOMAS HAWKINS

BERNE, Switzerland, July 3.—(AP)—Berlin dispatches indicated last night that Germany had abandoned hope of a final decision on the eastern front this summer despite its apparent victory at Sevastopol and a tremendous offensive effort now under way in the central Russian sector.

The Nazis say they do hope by September to wreck the Russian army organization, stabilize winter positions and release a large number of German troops probably in anticipation of an Allied second front.

Berlin militarists have refrained from commenting.

Should the Axis armies accomplish this objective and push the Allies out of the Mediterranean, as they hope to do by the African campaign, they would be in position to devote their major efforts to consolidating the ground gained, sitting back for the expected siege.

DRIVE FOR OIL

Regardless of this idea of strategy, the greatest effort will be made for the oil of the Caucasus, it was expected.

Virginio Gayda, Fascist editor, suggested in Il Giornale D'Italia that "operations in progress on the eastern front as well as Egypt have an aim, like two big arms, to hit and crush the centre of British interests in the Near East."

German propaganda minister Joseph Goebbels in the publication Das Reich, however, dealt with a second front, declaring that the German command had taken into consideration all possibilities and that "imminent danger does not exist at any point."

He asserted that if Britain tries to open a second front, the "catastrophe of Dunkerque would absolutely fade away" under a terrible defeat.

INSURRECTION SEEN

Goebbels did acknowledge the possibilities of insurrection in occupied countries, declaring that "such an attempt would last only a few hours; for it would be something else than blowing up an occasional railway line or falling on the back of a fighting soldier. We assume that everyone knows that in Norway, the Netherlands, Belgium and France."

Berlin dispatches quoted a high officer just returned from a tour of channel positions to the effect that the occupation armies were "not more active but possibly more attentive."

He said captured Zulu soldiers, along with French workers were busy enlarging fields and plateaus, presumably for fortifications; wire barricades were being examined and replaced by new ones on less fortified coastal areas; and gun crews were on constant patrol with rifles and grenades for any sudden invasion attempt.

Drew Hearing Set Over To July 10th

TORONTO, July 3.—(CP)—Proceedings against Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative leader, who is charged with making a statement "likely to prejudice recruiting," were adjourned Friday for one week at the request of the crown.

The adjournment was requested by Crown Counsel D. L. McCarthy when Col. Drew appeared before Magistrate J. Douglas McNish in police court in response to a summons served by R.C.M.P. June 24. Mr. McCarthy said that owing to circumstances beyond his control certain evidence was not available.

Mr. McCarthy first proposed adjourning the case one week with the understanding that then a date could be set on which to proceed with the hearing. Col. Drew, acting on his own behalf, objected there was no grounds for such lengthy delay and the crown agreed to proceed July 10.

Nazi Saboteurs To Be Tried By Military Court

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP)—President Roosevelt yesterday ordered a military trial for the eight men accused of coming to the United States in U-boats to sabotage the war effort. The prosecution is expected to ask the death penalty.

At the same time, Mr. Roosevelt issued a proclamation denying them, and all persons who enter the country for the purpose of espionage or sabotage, the right of access to the civil courts.

To try the men, Mr. Roosevelt created a military commission consisting of Major-Generals Frank R. McCoy, Walter S. Grant, Blanton Winship and Lorenzo D. Gasser, and Brigadier-Generals Guy V. Henry, John T. Lewis, and John T. Kennedy.

PRIVATE TRIAL

The trial is to begin as soon after July 8 as is practicable, is to be held privately in Washington, and the prosecution is to be conducted by the attorney general and the judge advocate general. Col. Cassius M. Dowell and Col. Kenneth Royall were appointed to defence counsel.

Edmonton Pilot Decorated For Daring Flight

found himself heading for land—straight below. A gaping hole had been left by the burned out spars. He saved himself by hooking his armpits over a few remaining spars, and hung there momentarily until he could climb back into the machine.

As the Wimpey reached lower altitudes, White regained consciousness and the first thing he saw was a night fighter on his tail.

Crosby sent out several SOS's on his radio communication. The machine could transmit but not receive and there was no way of knowing he was being received. The craft finally reached the English coast, not at 150 feet, and Swanson searched for a landing place.

Gas was low, tanks registered empty, and a landing was imperative. The young pilot saw a village through the haze and picked out a field nearly. . . . In a few seconds he had executed a perfect "belly landing." But their relief was tempered when they saw a windmill.

"My God," cried "Swede," "we're back in Holland!" But they were safe in England and soon contacted their home base with tidings of their safe return.

"GRAND JOB"

When Wing Commander Johnny "Moose" Fulton, D.F.C., A.F.C., of Kamloops, B.C., commanding officer of the squadron, saw the plane he commented: "Swanson did a wonderful bit of flying and all the boys did a grand job—the plane was really a wreck."

Swanson, tired after the long and arduous ordeal, still grinned happily as he related, "I sure thought we had bought ours. Everything seemed against us but we made it. That was my 27th operational flight, but Bing, the lucky cuss, has completed more, and will now have a rest."

Crosby, with a wealth of sarcasm in his voice, replied, "Yes, but I'm not sad about it. Believe me gang, Swede really flew that kite home."

ONE WORRY SAVED

With a deep chuckle Swanson told the boys, "there's one thing I'm really grateful for—Bing knew our dinghy wouldn't inflate if we were forced down in the sea, but didn't tell us because he thought that we had enough to worry about. Pretty swell, that!"

Just before going to bed the young pilot opened a letter from his girl friend in Canada and drew a laugh from the crowd about him when he read: " and the war seems to be going on fine now, but I hope it's over soon, dont you, Laurence?"

And that's the story behind one of our aircraft which wasn't reported missing.

Flt.-Sgt. Laurence Swanson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Swanson of 9852 81 avenue. He piloted the bomber on its hazard-filed flight home from enemy territory.

Canadian Troops Wanted By Movies

Guerilla Rangers On Pacific Coast Ask For Weapons

VICTORIA, July 3.—(CP)—Dr. T. A. Briggs, chairman of the Courtenay district defence council, yesterday appealed on behalf of the Pacific Coast Rangers to Defence Minister Ralston to send them guns and other equipment.

The statement chargd a lack of co-operation from military uathorities here and said the Rangers were completely lacking in equipment. Dr. Briggs said unless the minister moved at once there would be a complete collapse of Ranger units which were formed last spring as guerilla fighters and as an intelligence network for military authorities. Its ranks are made up of seasoned loggers, trappers, farmers and woodsmen.

Fierce Battle Now Raging In Egypt's Desert

afternoon to strike the Axis forces in the rear.

Informed quarters said the new Italian Littorio mechanized division had gone into action in the desert for the first time, increasing Rommel's armored strength to four divisions—two German and two Italian.

British bombers and fighters were reported to be smashing at Axis land forces "in increasing numbers."

Enemy concentrations south of El Alamein were heavily attacked, headquarters reported, and R.A.F. planes ranged far across the desert to blast Axis communication lines and the important supply port of Tobruk.

Both sides are throwing everything they have into the struggle, climax of a 350-mile Axis drive, and advices from the front indicate that newly-arrived British reinforcements are beginning to make their weight felt.

WELL-PLANNED MANOEUVRE

In an attempt to counter Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's armored assaults, British forces struck at the Axis rear late yesterday afternoon by a carefully-planned manoeuvre in which a flying column of tanks and mobile artillery circled the enemy's right flank.

The thrust apparently relieved pressure on positions at El Alamein, some 65 miles west of Alexandria, which was reported to have beaten off a new Axis assault.

So heavily engaged are the main bodies of the two opposing armies that there is no question of turning back or breaking off the battle to reorganize battered units.

For Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, commander in chief, the issue is clearly cut—he must destroy the enemy completely or be destroyd himself and lose Egypt.

NAZIS CLAIM ARMY NEAR ALEXANDRIA

BERNE, July 3. — (AP) — Dispatches from Berlin claimed late today that German and Italian troops were within 15 or 20 miles of Alexandria, and that the battle of El Alamein was already regarded as won, with the British 8th army in retreat toward the Nile delta.

(The report lacked confirmation. Cairo announced the Germans had to withdraw three miles yesterday after being repulsed from El Alamein, and that the battle resumed today.)

The German accounts said the British army had been dislodged from positions along the Arabs Gulf and that these outposts had been occupied by Rommel's forces.

Both Rome and Berlin dispatches said British 9th and 10th army reinforcements were arriving in Egypt from Palestine and Syria.

An Axis spokesman expressed belief the battle had developed with such speed that they would not have time to get into battle positions.

(There was no confirmation of these claims from any source and nothing to this effect was broadcasting over the Axis radios to the United States.)

Unrest Prevalent In Baltic States, Russians Declare

OTTAWA, July 3.—(CP)—The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation reported its listening post here today overheard the Moscow radio broadcasting a report of unrest in the Baltic states at Latvia and Esthonia. The Moscow announcer said 30 patriots had been killed for the slaying of a German policeman in a village identified as Zin.

The Russian announcer also said that the Berlin radio admitted unrest is present throughout Europe, blaming it on growing food shortage in Moravia, Bohemia, Poland, Belgium and Yugoslavia.

Nazis Relax Purge In Bohemia-Moravia

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), July 3.—(AP)—German-controlled Prague newspapers published Friday a decree lifting the state of siege imposed in the Bohemia-Moravia protectorate following the assassination of Reinhard Heydrich.

(The B.B.C. reported that Gen Kurt Daluege, successor to Heydrich as "protector" of Bohemia-Moravia, today announced the death penalty for a long list of anti-German offences, a cynical announcement, the B.B.C. added, inasmuch as more than 1,000 Czechs already have been executed on these same charges.)

Greek Spirit Is Unconquerable Declares King

OTTAWA, July 3.—(CP)—Despite starvation, the spirit of the Greek people is unconquerable, King George of Greece told a press conference here Friday.

His Majesty received a dozen or more reporters on the lawn at Government House where he is the guest of the Governor-General and Princess Alice for a few days.

He was accompanied by Prime Minister Tsouderos of Greece and George Depasta, Greek minister to Canada.

BULGARS WORST

The prime minister said the Bulgars are the worst of the three invading forces now occupying the Greek homeland. Next to them come the Germans, and the Italians are the "least objectionable."

The King read a prepared statement and then answered questions freely. He said some help is reaching Greece in the form of food, but not enough to provide nourishment for the people.

Deaths from famine average several hundred a day during the winter and spring and on one day reached 500. All information coming out indicated conditions are getting worse.

FAITH UNSHAKEN $

"In spite of the alternating phases of the war, I have unshakable faith in our victory and I believe that every sacrifice is worth the price of destroying tyranny and creating for this generation and those to come a world where liberty will never be menaced again," he said.

The King said he wished to thank the Canadian government and the Canadian people for sympathy and valuable assistance to Greece since the start of its struggle against invaders.

New York Paper Raps Criticism British Defeats

NEW YORK, July 3.—(CP)—The New York Times today took to task those in the United States who as a result of the defeats in Libya and Egypt are critical of Great Britain and her leaders. "Another reverse which could have been avoided has overtaken a British army," the Times said in a lengthy editorial captioned "Faith in Britain." "But let us not make this the occasion for a field day of too easy criticism. Let us, instead, salute a brave people who for more than two years held the fort for us—a brave people who still have endurance, faith and tremendous reserves of unused power. To the end of the road we shall go together, staunch allies in a winning cause."

British Batteries Blast At Channel During Late Night

LONDON, July 3. — (CP) — Ground-shaking cannonading, virtually all of it apparently from the English side, occurred along Dover Strait from midnight last night until 2 a.m. today.

Residents along the southeast coast of Kent were roused by the thunder and scores left their beds to hasten to the sea front or cliff tops.

(Sporadic cannonading along the English Channel in the past usually has meant an attack on a convoy steaming through the channel, either by the British on German vessels or a German attack on British vessels.)

Deciding Battles To Be In France

LONDON, July 3—(CP)—Gen. Charles De Gaulle, leader of the Free French, told his countrymen in France Friday night that the final battle of the war, "which decides everything," would be fought there and urged them to prepare for it.

"It's a great thing in war to have won the first battles but it's the last one which decides everything," he said. "It will take place in France. Who can deny that the battle in France becomes each day more probable despite the enemy's victories?

"France herself will fight this battle. In it she will play a decisive part. Let every Frenchman prepare. This is his whole duty. This is the only solution."

Gen. De Gaulle added that the Axis, despite its successes to date, was farther from victory than ever and declared the Allied forces which the enemy will have to destroy before he can dictate his orders are five times as great as those with which the Allies were able to oppose him a year ago.

Budget Passed In House With Vote Of 129-8

OTTAWA, July 3.—(CP)—By a recorded vote of 129 to eight the House of Commons last night adopted the motion of Finance Minister Ilsley to go into committee on the budget resolutions he presented June 23.

All main groups voted with the government and the opposition came from eight Quebec Liberals and Independents who have opposed the government strongly on its conscription policy.

Several amendments had been proposed by the New Democracy and by Quebec Independents but all had been declared out of order by Speaker Glen.

It had been expected that the main motion would pass without a division but sufficient members stood to demand a recorded vote.

Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, former minister of public works and transport who resigned his portfolios as protest against the government's conscription policy, voted for the budget and was loudly applauded. Prime Minister Mackenzie King leaned over and shook his hand.

There was applause also for Hon. Grote Stirling, acting leader of the Conservative group, and for C.C.F. Leader Coldwell and New Democracy Leader Blackmore as they voted with the government.

6-Cents Pound Subsidy To Be Paid On Butter

OTTAWA, July 3.—(CP)—The Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced last night that producers will be paid a six-cent-a-pound subsidy on butterfat effective next Monday to stimulate production and avert a "threatened shortage" of butter next winter and in the following season.

Butterfat subsidy is equivalent to five cents a pound on creamery butter.

The Canadian Press had been informed yesterday that butter consumers of the dominion will continue to have the protection of the 35-cent-a-pound price ceiling for another year but prices paid to farmers for milk sent to creameries will be increased by bonuses. It was explained then the purpose was to make their returns more nearly in line with those of farmers whose milk is used for cheese.

INCREASE PRODUCTION

The board announced also that the federal agriculture department will launch a campaign to promote increased butter production, particularly in areas where the subsidy offers opportunities for greater output.

In addition, for the balance of this season, the Dairy Products Board of the Department of Agriculture will stand prepared to support the market and maintain what is essentially a schedule of minimum prices at a level of two cents below the maximum prices already established by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board," the announcement said.

At the same time, the board called on Canadians to eliminate all waste of butter in every kitchen and dining room in the country.

Citing figures, the board said: "Creamery butter production in the first five months of 1942 was nearly 10 per cent lower than for the corresponding period of 1941. Domestic disappearance, in contrast, was more than 10 per cent higher.

ATTACK ON GAP

"The present measures of the board and the Department of Agriculture are there for a combined attack on this gap."

The Commodity Prices Stabilization Corporation under chairmanship of Hector B. McKinnon of Ottawa, will pay the subsidy to the creameries, and through them to the producers, on butterfat used in manufacture of creamery butter.

BUDGET DEBATE

Tax Exemptions On War Certificates, Insurance Premiums Are Advocated

OTTAWA, July 3.—(CP)—Income tax exemption on new life insurance policy premiums and on subscriptions for war savings certificates was advocated in the House of Commons budget debate yesterday by two Conservative members, G. K. Fraser (Peterborough West), and Hon. W. Earl Rowe (Dufferin-Simcoe).

Mr. Rowe said the budget provision that premiums on life insurance in force the day the budget was presented might be deducted from the compulsory saving portion of increased income taxation should be extended to the young men just starting married life.

Unless it was so extended he did not believe it should be given to any policyholders. It was a concession to men with well-established insurance policies but the high taxation might make it impossible for young persons to create an estate for their families.

CURTAIL DONATIONS

Mr. Fraser spoke against the new tax on candy and expressed the fear that the high taxation generally would drastically curtail contributions to welfare and other charitable organizations.

When Mr. Rowe proposed income tax exemption on new life insurance premiums, Finance Minister Ilsley asked Mr. Rowe if he realized the great impetus such action would give to the life insurance business of Canada.

Mr. Rowe agreed but asked what sounder way existed for a man to save money and create an estate than by insurance.

He declared that "thousands upon thousands" of war certificate subscribers were getting rid of what they had and refusing to buy more because such savings were not to be credited to compulsory savings.

Mr. Rowe devoted the bulk of his speech to an appeal for recognition by the government control boards of the problems of farmers.

He said price ceilings were being placed upon farm products with no regard for the rising costs of farm production and that these controls were applied by board, no members of which were practical farmers.

PRODUCTION VITAL

Production had to be maintained at its maximum if the people were to continue to make the contributions demanded of them, said Mr. Rowe, and agriculture was one phase of Canadian production which was in danger at the present moment.

He repeated a suggestion he had made previously, that the government set up a food production committee with representatives of producers and consumers from all over Canada.

So far the government's agricultural policy had been a "month to month" affair and now, with a long war certain, he urged a long range permanent farm policy.

Many farmers were paying 100 per cent more for labor than they paid before the war, although it was true that some farm commodities were selling at higher prices than before the war.

Mr. Rowe said he was not looking for big profits for the farmers. "They are asking only for some assurance of an opportunity to make both ends meet."

CARE URGED

"He urged the government to give careful consideration to "novel moves" being undertaken by the various control boards without proper advice.

All other control boards had representatives of the industries which they controlled, but that was not true of the boards dealing with farm problems.

It was true that farmers were on advising boards but their advice was not taken and they were not trusted on executive boards.

Today's War Moves

although Rommel appears to have concentrated his tank and artillery forces in the immediate vicinity of El Alamein. It had been expected that he would employ a strong column to strike at the British left flank at the edge of the depression, break through and spread out in the desert.

Instead, the Imperials found that end of the line comparatively weak and were able to counter-attack and force the Germans back. Dispatches are too meager to estimate the extent of the British success at that point, but there appears at least a chance that they will be able to turn north and fall on the enemy's rear.

One encouraging aspect of the news is that the R.A.F. has asserted its superiority in the air, which was not evident at Tobruk and Matruh. Aided by reinforcements of American heavy bombers and fliers, and by additions to their own R.A.F., they have inflicted heavy punishment on Axis bases, supply columns and troop concentrations.

It may be that the air force can play a decisive part in the conflict and compensate for the apparent inferiority in tanks and anti-tank weapons. Planes can work havoc with Rommel's supply lines, which have been considerably extended and must be maintained at any cost.

They also can harry and dispute the transport of supplies across the Mediterranean, although the Axis has been running the blockade despite high losses. The range of the bombers is shown in the fact that they have made a mass attack on Derna in Libya, and other bases all along the coast.

British tactics must be governed by heavy losses in men and material since the Tobruk calamity. The extent of the losses was revealed in part by Prime Minister Churchill, who told Commons that we lost 50,000 men in the last two weeks. That is half the force we had at the start of the campaign, when Churchill said they were meeting the Germans at last on something like equal terms.

Agriculturists Open Sessions Red Deer Meet

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

RED DEER, July 3.—About 70 delegates from all parts of Alberta were in Red Deer Thursday for the opening sessions of the second annual convention of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture. Lew Hutchison, Duhamel, was elected chairman.

Mayor E. S. Hogg, officially welcomed the delegates and M. H. Ward, Arrowhead, replied. The secretary, E. W. Brunsden, Calgary, read the introduction and the subject headings of minutes of the 1941 convention, the rest being waived. Two committees were appointed, the resolutions committee consisting of George Bennet, Manville, Stephen Lunn, Pincher Creek and Robert Stewart, Innisfail, and the credentials committee being Wilfred Hopkins, Elnora, and Mr. W. Hawreluk, Ispas.

REPORTS READ

Mr. Brunsden, besides presenting the financial report, read the report of the livestock director, W. C. McKenzie, Lethbridge, who was absent, and that of the board of directors.

L. B. Thomson, superintendent of the Swift Current experimental farm led a technical discussion of grading principles in beef marketing, using a series of statistical charts. F. J. Fitzpatrick, acting supervisor of co-operative activities, Edmonton, spoke with special reference to the organization of credit unions. Norman F. Priestly, Calgary, read a report on the distribution of farm supplies. Mr. Hutchinson read his report as grain director and J. H. Rhodes, Brant, reported on poultry activities.

In the afternoon there were two important addresses, one by J. E. Brownlee, K.C., vice-president of the U.G.G. on "The present status of farm debt adjustment in western Canada," going over the history of a recent series of conferences on this subject in the three prairie provinces. The other was by H. Fowler, field representative of Canadian Co-operative Implements Ltd.

He told of the satisfactory progress of this organization in Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Organization in Alberta is not so complete and he urged strongly that the matter should be pushed to completion.

ASK WOOL INCREASE

The conference passed unanimously a resolution urging the dominion government to raise the maximum price to the producer for best quality wool from 25 cents to 30 cents per pound.

Hon. D. B. MacMillan, provincial minister of agriculture, spoke at a banquet served by the church. He said that farming in Alberta was a complicated business demanding a variety of different techniques depending on the soil and climatic variations.

A body such as the federation tended to co-ordinate information and the efforts of the different farm bodies and might well give his department a lead as to a workable policy. He suggested formation of a provincial consulting committee on agricultural services.

Dr. R. D. Sinclair, acting dean of the faculty of agriculture, University of Alberta, gave a talk on "the impact of war on agriculture." He complimented the federation on the intensive work they had done in studying certain agricultural techniques, especially as affected by war requirements. Norman F. Priestly, of the U.F.A. Central Co-Operative, Calgary, presided at the banquet.

Ilsley To State Gov't Policy On Housing Program

OTTAWA, July 3.—(CP)—Finance Minister Ilsley told the House of Commons yesterday he proposed to make a statement on housing after the report of a house war expenditures committee, expected shortly, is received.

Conservative house leader Hanson said Mr. Ilsley had been asked to make a statement in April and again in June.

Mr. Ilsley said he hoped to give an indication of government policy on housing. Many suggestions for continuation of the National Housing Act had been received, but the main activity at the moment was that of Wartime Housing Ltd., a government firm, whose housing program was going forward with great activity.

The committee might make recommendations in respect to housing, the minister said, and he would await this report.

New Counter-Action Is Expected To Result In Sharp Sinking Decrease

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP)—The United Nations high command has thrown the full force of available Allied seapower into the fight to smash Hitler's U-boat offensive, the navy department disclosed last night with an announcement that Canadian and British warships are cruising side by side with United States vessels in the battle of the Atlantic.

Allied corvettes, destroyers and other "anti-submarine vessels" are at work both on the distant high seas and in the campaign against submarines operating along the United States eastern seaboard, the statement revealed.

This means that hundreds of battle-toughened veterans of 2½ years of U-boat warfare off Britain's shores now are helping the United States hunt Nazi raiders on this side of the Atlantic.

RELIEVE PRESSURE

This and the presumably large number of additional vessels which now have been thrown into the anti-submarine campaign raised hopes of experts here that a material lessening in U-boat depredations off the North American coast would be achieved this summer.

Recent important developments in this campaign would seem to strengthen this attitude of cautious optimism, although they are not all on the profit side of allied operations.

These developments include:

1—The United States navy's announcement of June 22 that a convoy system had been instituted along the Atlantic seaboard from Maine to Florida. Authorities said convoys heavily protected by small warships offer the best possible protection to shipping.

2—The disclosure shortly thereafter that enemy subs are planting mines along the eastern United States coast and that a few sinkings from these mines had already occurred.

(Warning that mines, presumably of Japanese origin, may be adrift in Canada's Pacific coastal waters was issued in Victoria, B.C., Thursday by Commodore J. W. R. Beech, R.N.C., commanding officer, Pacific coast. A similar warning was issued by United States naval authorities at Seattle.)

OFF CONVOY ROUTES

3—Announcement by the United States Navy of merchant ship sinkings at a rate of two to four a day even during the period in which convoys have been operating. Most of these losses have occurred, however, in the Caribbean or other southern waters where convoys are not yet known to be in operation.

4—Evidences of the increasing speed of American production of special anti-submarine boats and the use by the navy of small, private craft for both a limited anti-sub patrol and also to release large coast guard vessels now tied up on routine harbor protection duties.

According to best obtainable information, there is no question that the U-boat menace has occasioned the gravest concern in high quarters of the Allied command.

(Some 330 ships have been announced sunk in the Atlantic and Caribbean since the United States entered the war.)

SUPPLY LINE OPEN

But on the other side of the picture is the fact that Allied warships have kept open the great supply lines all over the world—to Britain, Russia, Africa, and Australia—by concentrating protection on convoys travelling those routes.

Among officials here there was no sign of expectation that even the best anti-submarine methods would eliminate sinkings, and experts in undersea warfare agreed that as long as Hitler is willing to pay the price he will be able to continue sinking ships in North American waters.

The defence problem, it was said, is to raise the price so high that Hitler's loss in subs and men eventually will make the incursions of his raiders unprofitable except for relatively infrequent attacks which would not greatly disturb the United Nations' war effort.

Goebbels Scores Churchill, F.D.R.

BERNE, Switzerland, July 3—(AP)—Germany's propaganda minister, Paul Joseph Goebbels, complained yesterday in an arteile in the German weekly publication Bas Reich that President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill are not "reasonable" enemies and might, therefore, try a second front.

He assured the people of Germany that "the entrance to Europe is blocked" but said it would be "more agreeable" if Germany were confronted by "intelligent leadership" whose actions one could foresee with "a certain probability."

Goebbels said Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill are capable of the "greatest foolishness" and no one was in a position to "predict where, when and how they intend to establish the so-called second front."

He asserted Germany is prepared on the western front and that "better cards are in our hands. The English are not here, they must come."

He added that Germany is not interested in the prospect; that the only question is whether the Allies desire it or not.

A Post-War "Bottom"

It is announced at Ottawa that the four great wheat exporting countries—Canada, the United States, Australia and Argentina—have failed to agree on a minimum price for wheat to prevail in the two-year period following the war. They have, however, agreed that the price immediately before the armistice shall be the bottom price for six months following.

It is disappointing that a long term price could not be set. But it is encouraging to know that the attempt was made, and that stability is assured for at least six months. And perhaps when the time comes it will be found that the longer term agreement would be meaningless. Europe is impoverished, to such a degree that the Allied countries may have to give its peoples wheat almost without consideration of price in order to save them from starvation. That the war will end with the bins in every occupied country empty is certain.

For practical purposes it may be assumed that the four wheat exporting countries will have to carry the heavy end of the load when it comes to financing the feeding of Europe in the immediate post-war days. Britain and the Governments in exile will have little money left, and little goods to give in exchange.

In any event, it is altogether to the good that the matter is being discussed now, and that some progress has been made in preventing a market collapse when the fighting stops.

Japan Has A Problem, Too

They also have commandos in Australia. One troop made a hit-and-run raid on the Japanese base at Salamaua. That New Guinea port is as far by air-line from Darwin as Berlin is from London. And as far as from a North British port to Bergen.

With commandos supplementing the Australia-based long range bombers and submarines, Japan's life-line around the corner of the continent of Asia can be depended upon only so long as the Allies have not forces enough to go systematically about the job of breaking it.

That is one reason why Tokyo is so anxious to crush China—and thus obtain a land supply route by which to support its army in Burma. If the Chinese can be given backing enough to block this attempt, the Burma invaders will be in a precarious position. They may be able to rob the Burmese of food, but munitions and fighting machinery of all kinds must come from Japan. Unless these can be supplied regularly and in great quantities, the threatened invasion of India would be impossible.

The Allied problem in that theatre appears to be to stiffen Chinese resistance while MacArthur builds up air, sea and land forces with which to cut the Japanese sea communication line. He is fairly likely to be able to do so by the time the monsoon ends and better weather conditions return to the East Indies area. Recent reports from Chungking are that the Chinese are now getting the air power they have so badly needed.

If the Allied position in the Middle East is grave, so is the Japanese position on the southern fringe of Asia.

The Budget

Mr. Hanson, the Conservative leader, stated what is undoubtedly the general view regarding the budget. He said he does not like all the details—who does? But the money had to be raised, the proposals for raising it are practicable, and they distribute the burden with fair equity; wherefore he would support the budget. This is the reasonable view, and expresses what must be the reaction of most Canadians.

It is not a budget anybody can cheer for. There is nothing in it for anyone. It hits every pocket, and hits them pretty hard. No person is going to get rich because of it, or in spite of it, unless he does it by fraud and deception. It is meant to absorb the surplus earnings of people in all financial grades.

There is no longer need for debate about conscripting wealth; it is being already conscripted. If bank balances and stock holdings and the titles to property are not being confiscated, the returns from these are to be gathered into the treasury, along with what wages and salaries are left after paying family bills.

The fact may as well be faced that a plainer standard of living is the only program which will make the budget demands payable. And the demands have to be taken into account before the living standard can be set. It is not to be a case of living on a scale to suit ourselves, and handing over the balance to the war chest. The procedure is the other way about. Each one must figure out what taxes he has to pay, provide for these, and then cut his personal and family spendings accordingly.

Canadians are not going to like this program. They will not even pretend that they like it. But they will accept it as the price they have to pay for the privilege of being able to live in future as they want to live and not as Adolf Hitler orders them to live.

Parliament showed good sense in passing the budget with a minimum loss of time and by a record-making majority. Our friends and enemies know Canada means to pay whatever our freedom may cost.

The United States Senate has passed the bill providing for the building of eight and a half billion dollars' worth of warships. As notable as the unprecedented sum involved is the fact that the program calls for 500,000 tons of airplane carriers but no battleships. Naval men of the old school must wonder what the world is coming to.

The Japanese continue to show that they are good Nazis. They wiped out the city of Cebu, second in importance in the Philippines, because the inhabitants resisted them. That did not intimidate the Filipinos elsewhere, but it did establish the spiritual affinity of the invaders with the airmen who killed 30,000 civilians in Rotterdam and the Ciano "sportsmen" who took such delight in dropping bombs among crowds of Abyssinians.

—V—

In the debate at London, Mr. Oliver Lyttleton and Lord Beaverbrook defended the quantity and the quality of the weapons with which the 8th Army failed to stop Rommel's drive in Libya and on the frontier of Egypt. This adds obscurity, not clearness, to the course of events. Ever since the enemy found a way through the mine fields west of Tobruk the despatches have credited Rommel with having bigger and better tanks than the British, bigger and better guns, and dive-bombers who set the R.A.F. at defiance.

A Point He Overlooked

Nor did Hitler envisage the Japanese moving on the French empire in Africa. He once overestimated the resistance of the French as grossly as he underestimated the resistance of the Russians, and in the finale it may turn out that the first miscalculation was as disastrous to his plans as the second.

The too-swift collapse of the French army, opening the way to England before he was ready to take it, not only made him overconfident, but left him unprepared for the political aftermath of his military success.

The decisive fact he has never faced, although Germany after Versailles was the best example of it, is that defeat is not the end of a nation. He did not see that he would have to keep on defeating France. He failed to realize that winning too much at first and carrying conquered countries through a war they wanted him to lose was the worst handicap he could assume.—New York Times.

Leopold Holds Out For Freedom

By HAROLD L. WEIR

More than a year ago, I had some very bitter things to say about King Leopold of the Belgians when circumstances made it appear that His Majesty was playing directly into the hands of the Nazis.

Subsequent events proved that I was wrong, as I frequently am.

Harold L. Weir

The final proof of King Leopold's loyalty appears in his reported reply to recent overtures from the Nazis.

It is said that Hitler has urged Leopold to take a more active part in the government of his country, under Nazi supervision, of course. Leopold has flatly refused to have anything to do with a Belgian government that does not represent the free will of the Belgian people.

This seems definitely to re-establish the fact of Leopold's courage and loyalty and to show that his devotion to his people's welfare is no whit less than his valiant father's.

Offered Peace

What actually happened in Belgium is this:

Joachim von Ribbentrop offered to negotiate a peace between Germany and Belgium if the King would appoint a new government headed by the Rexis leader, Leon Degrelle, and sign a declaration joining the Axis "crusade" against Communism.

Such a peace, presumably, would leave Belgian territory intact and perhaps provide for the annexation of the Dutch province of maritime Flanders on the south side of the Scheldt estuary.

The Nazis, of course, insist on a customs and economic union with the Reich which would mean continued exploitation.

The King is reported to have declined to even discuss the proposals and remains a prisoner at Laeren Palace, near Brussels, under guard of Nazi sentries.

The Germans are said to feel that the King's attitude is the backbone of Belgian passive resistance.

Hitler Worried

So much is said in justice to King Leopold.

But the point behind these circumstances is significant to a degree.

If Leopold's scornful rejection of these overtures contributes to his good repute, that rejection contributes no less to Hitler's humiliation.

Why, then, should Hitler humble himself before a royal figure which hitherto he has pretended to hold in contempt?

The truth is that the situation in occupied Europe is worrying the Fuehrer more than he would care to admit and in a manner that is carefully kept out of the news by German censorship.

Neither the brutality of the Gestapo nor wholesale executions, he finds to his dismay, can break the hearts and spirit of the conquered peoples.

He may shoot hostages by the score; he may enforce the most repressive regulations; he may billet his troops in every conquered home. But still the spirit of revolt breaks out.

And he is forced to seek a compromise with the legitimate rulers in order to preserve the order that is necessary to his occupation.

Break Down

This, of course, is humiliating to Hitler. It indicates a moral defeat and it indicates a growing danger to the Nazis.

There is something of deeper significance in the situation than these considerations.

Hitler's attempts to compromise with rightful authority in his occupied countries means simply this:

That a breakdown has occurred in his theory of the "master race" and in the machinery that was originally set up to control a conquered Europe.

As everyone will remember, the original Hitler plan for the government of Europe excluded all native authority. Every conquered European country was to be administered solely by Germans. The Germans would be able to do this because they were the "master race."

Hitler's approach to King Leopold is an admission that this plan has failed. He has had to seek governmental assistance from native authority.

It demonstrates the unworkability of an important Hitlerian concept. Incidentally, it must cast grave doubt, in the German mind, of the validity of the "master race" doctrine.

Encouragement

This affair is encouraging to the United Nations from two standpoints.

In the first place, it indicates the reality of the resistance offered by conquered Europeans to Hitler. It proves that all the stories of rebellion and restlessness are quite true and that we have much to hope from this bold turbulence of spirit.

In the second place, it indicates how false and brittle the Hitlerian structure really is.

If Hitler's grand plan for the government of Europe is capable of breaking down in one particular, it is capable of breaking down in all particulars.

That is the Allied hope. That is the German fear.

The sanctity and infallibility of the doctrines of Mein Kampf are dissolving before German eyes.

Pension Board Cuts

Editor, Bulletin: When a soldier whose parents receive an old age pension assigns some of his pay to those parents and obtains the dependents' allowance, the Pensions Board at once cuts the pension by the amount of the assignment plus the allowance.

As far as the dependents' allowance goes this is understandable since both pension and allowance bills are footed by the taxpayers, but the assigned pay is different.

Our soldiers are paid so much by the government in return for their services and not excessively so compared with present wages in less-dangerous trades.

This pay is surely the soldier's own property. If he chooses to deny himself and send some of it home that is his business and the Pension Board have no right to consider it in adjusting the parents' pension.

At present what it boils down to is that the board are forcing the soldier to pay the pension promised his parents by the Ottawa government.

"Disgruntled M.L.A."

Editor, Bulletin: It is difficult to understand the reason of C. A. Reynolds, M.L.A. for Stettler, withdrawing his support from the Social Credit Government on such a flimsy foundation.

In the first place, he has not the right under a true Democracy, to represent his own views, but those of his constituents, and if after consultation with his constituents he had found that they supported him in his decision, his withdrawing from the Government would be more logical.

Then secondly, because some of his views did not convince a majority of his colleagues in caucus, is utterly ridiculous in causing him to resign from the Social Credit party. It really suggests a mentality that must have its own way at all costs.

Then thirdly in his letter of resignation he stated he was concerned about the agricultural condition of the farmers, yet he knows that at the very time of his letter being written a conference was being arranged in Saskatoon, of the three prairie provinces to come to an understanding on vital matters connected with the agricultural problem. Also he should know that in all matters of an economic and monetary policy a long view must be taken if a steady advance is to be made.

We notice also in his letter that he seems to be leaning to the support of the C.C.F., and while we as Social Creditors desire co-operation as much as possible, yet it is significant that Mr. Reynolds in the 1940 election opposed a C.C.F. candidate and won with a comfortable majority. Under the circumstances the only honorable course for Mr. Reynolds to adopt is to resign his seat to someone who will faithfully represent the views of the constituents who elected him to the Provincial Legislature.

Religious Literature

Editor, Bulletin: Several years ago, an Englishwoman who was at this particular time a noted preacher at The Guildhouse, Eccleston Square, London, Eng., was asked by the publishers, Messrs. Ernest Benn Ltd., to write a book setting forth her belief in Christianity.

"I Believe in God" by A. Maude Royden, was the result of this request and in common with all really inspired literature this book is by no means out-dated.

Many men and women are asking the following questions. Why this war? Why does not God intervene? Why in any case must innocent people and children be the victims of cruelties, suffering?

Miss Royden gives a clear decisive answer to these perplexing problems, and throws much light upon the world and nature.

Seekers after truth should read and study "I Believe in God."

Willing To Serve

Editor, Bulletin: In papers recently it was stated "that there is no conscription in South Africa."

Rhodesia, named after the late Cecil John Rhodes, has conscription endorsed by a good record of loyal service.

We need less time wasted envisioning the heaven and earth to be after we win this war and more interest in economy and buy British to help pay for war equipment to back our loyal volunteers.

Due to age limit many loyal, courageous men able to endure hardships never experienced by modern youth are rejected, although such strengthen the forces at every angle.

Britons keen to serve, as our veterans prove, character not age indicates who to select for the three services to uphold their tradition. Soldiers should drive their car, even when a woman is in charge of car.

One can state "Well done Rhodesia." All unite to win this war following England's example to fight under conscription due to England upholding justice and playing the game.

Make Old Age Pensions Self-Sustaining

By J.H.G. in The WINNIPEG FREE PRESS

The prime minister, Mr. King, in one of his recent broadcasts said that if the shape of the world to come is not discernible before the war is over that there is little hope of a better world being wrought. This is profoundly true. Happily the shape the world will take internationally is now assuming form. It will be a world of collective security for all countries in which decent international law will prevail. But the shape of things to come inside the countries of the world, with several notable exceptions, is still obscure. No international system of security can survive unless the countries are all domestically healthy. The upheavals resulting from internal social distress are bound to overflow national borders.

There must be, as President Roosevelt so eloquently put it, freedom from want and freedom from fear. The individual states will, of necessity, have to expand their social services. The right to work must become a recognized principle of domestic policy. Because Canada recognized this, it has instituted a system of unemployment insurance. The question now arises as to there being other steps which can be taken in the same direction.

One of the prime causes of unemployment which origniated in the last war was the shortening of the working age. Men over 60 found it increasingly difficult to find and keep employment. To alleviate distress caused by the lack of employment for elderly citizens old age pensions were established. It is now generally conceded that these pensions are too low and the age minimum of 70 years too high. There has been a widespread demand for a reduction of the age eligibility to 65 years and an increase in the pension rate.

Federal Share

The Dominion government now pays 75 per cent of the cost of old old age pensions. This costs the government some $30,000,000 a year. The main objection raised against increasing the pension and lowering the retirement age has been financial. To have done so would have increased the cost many-fold. Times, however, have changed considerably since the war started. We have, for the first time in more than a decade, approached total employment in this country. This would make the present an ideal moment at which to institute a system of contributory old age pensions. The system now in force in the United States might well serve as a model.

The United States system is financed by a tax on payrolls. It started with employees and employers each contributing one per cent. The rate was raised to two per cent each this year and will be incerased to three per cent each in 1949. Upon retirement at 65 years of age the benefits are computed on the average earnings of the worker over the insured period. Thus a worker who earned an average of $100 and was insured for 20 years would receive a pension of $30 per month. If his wife were also 65 or over, the pension would be $45. If there was a child under 16 years of age, or under 18 and still in school, the pension would be $60.

Should an insured worker die before he reaches 65 and leave a widow and family, pensions are paid to the widow until the children reach 18 years of age. The pension then stops but the widow becomes eligible again for a pension when she reaches 65. Her pension then would depend upon how long her husband had been insured and the amount of his income. Thus the pension of the widow of the example cited above would receive $22.50 per month. Lump sum payments are provided for in the case of death.

All employment is not covered by the United States social security act. Agricultural labor is not covered, nor domestic servants, government or railway employees. When a person becomes eligible for his pension, he cannot work in any trade covered by the act. He can, if able and willing, obtain employment in any line of endeavor outside the act and still receive his pension.

Self-Sustaining

There are several good reasons why a similar act could be established in Canada now. It would put old age pensions in Canada on a self-sustaining basis. It would divert substantial sums of money from the consuming public into the national treasury. Locally it would lift a considerable burden from Manitoba municipalities which must now pay a quarter of the old age pensions. If the mothers' allowances were incorporated into a national social security act, the provinces would likewise be relieved of a financial responsibility they have assumed.

Every Nazi Victory Means Bloodshed And Excesses

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

Let us turn our eyes away from Egypt for a moment to consider how the Nazis celebrate their successes. For this gives us some inkling of what a Nazi victory would mean.

Normally speaking, men are magnanimous in victory. The extremists of war become mitigated as nations feel themselves strong. Here, in America, we go further; there is much discussion of how we can treat the Germans after our victory.

Dorothy Thompson

But note that every new Nazi success is immediately followed by a wave of terror—in Germany itself, and against the occupied countries. The reaction is that of the pathological bully, who feeling his victim weaken breaks out in barbaric sadism.

Officials who have dealt with German prisoners of war, and Germans who have had experience with Nazis interned with them in concentration camps all tell the same story. Let me quote one of them verbally:

"I was interned along with other Germans in England when war broke out. All of us were German patriots, but a few of us were anti-Nazis. When France fell and it seemed as though the German troops would be in England in a matter of days, life in that camp was a torture. During all the hours of the day, the Nazis made continual speeches—wild, bestial, blasphemous outbreaks of triumph and hate. Those few of us who, filled with nausea at these hideous promises of torture and revenge, dared to say a calming word, were beaten up."

Wild Beasts

One German officer, a prisoner of war, said recently recalling those days, "Do you remember how these people behaved when they thought victory certain? Like wild beasts. It would have been horrible if Hitler had won then. There must be a God."

That is a German officer speaking, who still hopes that "Germany" will not be utterly defeated, but shudders contemplating the excesses that would follow a Nazi victory.

What happens in the concentration camps follows the pattern of the whole history of Naziism in Germany.

Every Nazi success has been followed by new excesses.

Let us take the most dramatic victory they ever had: Munich. In the Nazi propaganda Munich represented the unification of the German race in one state—the brotherhood of the German nation in Europe. It occurred in September 1938. But what happened?

Two weeks afterward a new wave of persecution against the Catholic church occurred. Almost simultaneously a new purge in the German High Command took place. The chief of the German General Staff, General Beck, was dismissed. Exactly five weeks after Munich, the greatest pogrom in Nazi history was put on, with the burning of the synagogues, the confiscation of the bulk of German-Jewish fortunes, and the arrest of almost every male of Jewish blood in the country.

That was the answer to a move of pacification.

After the fall of France hope was strong in that country that a collaborationist France could purchase humane and normal treatment. Not one of the baits held out in Nazi propaganda was delivered. Recent successes on the Eastern front have been celebrated by new demands on Vichy and by the offer to release half a million prisoners of war—for forced labor in Germany. This is called "freedom."

The Nazi successes of the last days have been accompanied by a new outburst of terror in the occupied countries, the annihilation of Lidice in Czecho-Slovakia, and only Thursday last by the razing of the little village of Lezaky — after the Nazis had killed hundreds and formally recorded that Reinhard Heydrich's slayers had been found and executed.

But in Germany itself the successes are celebrated by two measures, one economic—a new expropriation of the middle classes; and the other political; a new purge of so-called "anti-social" elements and "enemies of the state."

The economic oppression consists of a decree forcing all holders of industrial securities, except those actually in the hands of the industrialists themselves, to exchange them for treasury bonds, thus taking worthless paper in exchange for liens on real property.

Antagonisms

The political measures are linked to this. Oppression creates antagonisms, and the antagonisms are to be liquidated by an intensification of terrorism.

Now, there is method in this. The Nazis are trying to win the war as a condition for the realization of their real program, which not even in Germany has yet been completely fulfilled. Hitler has a vision of a Nazi Utopia and every victory encourages him to take another step in achieving it. That Utopia is a super-feudal world order run by the Nazi Party and policed by its thugs. Successful, the Nazis will not only persecute the Church but suppress it for a new black magical religion of blood sacrifice, adequate to the soul of the whole system.

Total victory would therefore mean total terror, without relief, and endless, against the helpless and unarmed.

I wish that I could shout to the world, and in especial to every young man with a gun, and with an eloquence that I do not possess, that every Nazi success brings nearer a blood bath and a blood lust, such as even the war has not released. Should the Nazis win, the real war would begin.

Garrie, Bentley; Myra Lynch, Leduc; Marge Smith, Leduc; Sgt. T. H. Shortreed, Grandview, Man.; and Mrs. Harry Brown, Red Deer.

Rural Gleanings

ENDIANG. — The recent heavy rainfall has brought an ample growth in pasture and crops. It is hoped that the rain will retard the grasshoppers which have already been reported in the southern part of this district.

BON ACCORD—Rev. G. A. Sauder and Mrs. Sauder were guests of honor at a party held on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. The evening commenced with a short program after which Mr. and Mrs. Sauder were presented with a gift of silver. All five points of the congregation, comprising the Bon Accord charge, were represented and contributed to the gift.

GLENDON.—Mrs. Thomas Westgard and her two children have left for New Westminster where they will join Mr. Westgard. . . . Miss C. Vandermark, B.A., of the high school staff, has left for Edmonton and Miss Helen M. Leskiw has left for her home in Spedden. Both have resigned, Miss Leskiw to attend the University of Alberta. Before leaving both were guests of honor at a party held at the home of Mrs. Esther Smith.

CLIVE—Miss V. Murdoch, who is training at the Misericordia hospital, Edmonton, is visiting her home . . . Jeanette Northcott is receiving treatment in Edmonton . . . Cucumbers, beans and pumpkins have been spoiled by the recent frosts and cold rains. Other garden produce is doing well . . . With Rev. F. Forster officiating, funeral services were held recently in the United church for W. Kershaw . . . Mayor Illsley has recovered from a recent illness . . . Miss P. Morrical was the guest of honor at a shower held recently . . . The sports day was postponed owing to rain and bad roads.

KILLAM.—In honor of their daughter, Mildred Ruth, whose marriage to Roy Elmer Erickson, Turner Valley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Erickson, took place recently, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Still held a reception. . . . Mr. and Mrs. George Rodick recently celebrated their 48th wedding anniversary. . . . Miss Georgina Ruzicka, who is training at the Edmonton General Hospital, is spending a holiday with her mother. . . . Mr. and Mrs. M. Dunham and son, Bill, accompanied by Mrs. Mary York, are visiting relatives at Canyon Creek.

VIMY—In honor of Miss Clyna Morin, who will leave shortly for Yellowknife where she will be married to Romeo Dussault, a shower was held recently . . . Before his marriage to Miss Gertrude Steffer, of Morinville, Gerard Lachance was the guest of honor at a party.

EVANSBURG. — Many visitors have arrived to stay with relatives here recently. Among those here at present are Mrs. E. McDougall, Mr. and Mrs. S. Watson, Edmonton, M. Embry, a former mine executive and Mrs. C. Buzenness, whose husband was killed at Naemine last winter.

LACOMBE—Leaving for vacations at the coast recently were Mrs. E. Bell, Billy and Margaret, and Mrs. J. Stewart Fraser and her two sons, Billy and Gordon . . . Three new members were initiated at the last regular meeting of Hub camp, Modern Woodmen of America. The camp has now invested $600 in Victory bonds . . . MacKenzie brothers have shipped a carload of horses to Prince George, B.C., and another carload to Pickering, Ont., during the past week. The demand for good local horses is continuing.

VERMILION—Vermilion and Kitscoty lodges, A.F. and A.M., held a joint installation on June 30 at the Masonic Temple . . . Annual convention of the Gospel Brethren has opened here . . Students of Grade 11 of the high school held a graduation banquet for the students of Grade 12. Guests included the parents of Grade 12 students, school trustees and the mayor. About 70 attended the banquet which was served by the W.A. of St. Saviour's church Guest speaker was Rev. L. G. Sieber, B.A., while class president George Knoll acted as master of ceremonies.

Drowning Victim Buried At Bashaw

BASHAW. — Funeral services were held recently for Stanley Hoy, 1½, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hoy. Playing in the yard of his parents' home the little boy fell in a water tank and, although found a few minutes later, could not be revived.

He was born in the Dorenlee district and surviving him are his parents and one sister. Pallbearers at the service, which was conducted by Rev. C. A. Warren, were K. Pearson, D. Pearson, F. Ho and S. E. Pearyson. Interment took place in the Bashaw cemetery.

John Jarvis narrowly escaped serious injury when the horse he was riding threw him. . . . Wm. Breum and P. Puffer have put a new cereal on the market which is now being sold in large quantities.

Carry On Club Does Good Work

HANNA.— Since its inception eight months ago, the Carry On Club, although it has most of the time consisted of only six members has completed 190 pieces of work, turning in altogether 206 pieces with the assistance of friends and has sent $22 worth of cigarettes to soldiers overseas.

Mrs. James Eagleson is president and Mrs. Robert Carswell secretary-treasurer of the organization which has sent all its completed articles to the Red Cross. Each member has "adopted" a soldier and a name is drawn each month to whom the club sends 300 cigarettes. The money for the cigarettes is raised by the members' five cent dues collected at each meeting.

Articles completed include 28 pairs men's socks, 15 sweaters, one pair boy's mitts, two pairs boys' knee socks, 54 pillow cases, 50 surgical towels, eight pairs pyjamas, seven jumpers, seven blouses, 16 skirts, one pair bloomers, one pair infant's sleepers.

When a miniature cloudburst hit the Cereal district the car of Norman Knott, traveller, skidded into the ditch and turned over. He was taken to Cereal hospital to have injuries to his head as well as several broken ribs attended to. The car was badly damaged. . . . Mr. and Mrs. J. Trew and daughter, New Westminster, B.C., are spending a holiday with Mrs. Trew's parents, Const. and Mrs. J. Winkler. . . . Mrs. E. Pennock and daughter are visiting Mrs. Pennock's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lay, Consort. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jones and son Vernon will spend a short holiday with Mrs. Jones' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Kitchen, Wainwright.

Injuries Fatal To Fr. MacNeil

CORONATION. — Father J. B. MacNeil, Roman Catholic priest of St. Anthony's Church, died recently in a Castor hospital as the result of injuries received when his car turned over in the ditch near Castor. He was en route to Calgary to attend a conference of unit organizers for southern Alberta.

He was chairman of the War Services Committee and the Victory Loan as well as an active member of the Soldiers' Comfort Fund. He has served as priest here for several years.

Miss Helen Mayhew of the Edmonton General Hospital is spending a vacation with her parents here. . . . Miss I. McGillivary, matron of the Coronation Hospital staff, will leave shortly to take a similar position at Grande Prairie. She has been on the staff here for several years. Miss Nancy Evans, also of the staff, will join the staff of the Consort Hospital.

Shipments from the local branch of the Red Cross to Calgary include six quilts, one W.A.C. cardigan, one W.A.C pullover, four boys' pyjamas, one W.A.C. sleeveless sweater, one child's nightgown, two W.A.C. toques, one boy's sweater, three pairs women's socks, two pairs men's mitts.

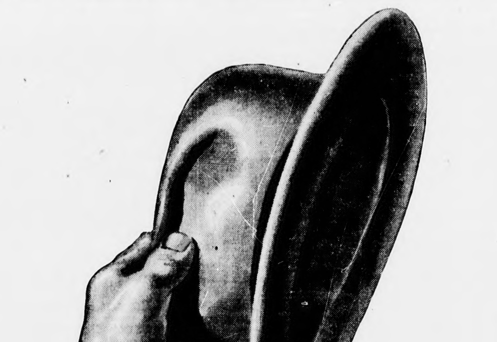
Gottleib Baes Dies At Hanna

HANNA—Gottleib Baes, 83, died recently at the home of his son at Scapa. He had been in poor health for some time and was totally blind. Funeral services were conducted at the First United church with Rev. C. E. A. Pocock officiating. Besides his immediate family, Mr. Baes leaves one brother. Mrs Baes predeceased him eight years ago.



Salute—TO PRIVATE JONES — THE MAN!

PRIVATE JONES is Private Anybody in the Canadian Army. Hats off to him!

You will be saluting a Canadian and a man—a man with the heart, courage and unselfishness to step away from his home and all that he holds dear to defend all that you and Canada hold dear.

Salute Private Jones, the man—somebody's son, somebody's husband, somebody's father. Realize what he has given up for you.

See beneath his uniform his courage, manhood, loyalty, and love of life—that Canadian way of life he loves so well he is ready to die for it—and automatically you will lift your hat.

Whoever you are, wherever you are, hats off to Private Jones.

TWO-WAY TIE IN SENIOR BASEBALL

Dodgers Defeat Arrows By Score Of 6-1

Lindberg Lets Two Reach Third

Dodgers moved into a tie for leadership of the Senior Baseball League when they handed out a 6-1 reverse to the Arrows at Renfrew Park on Thursday night. Both clubs now have four wins and three losses each.

Ed. Lindberg made it tough for the Arrows, allowing only six hits while striking out seven. "Lefty" exhibited almost perfect control, issuing only a solitary pass, and he permitted only two of the opposition to reach third base.

One of them was Jim Kelly, who was pressed into service due to a player shortage. The Aircraft Repair outfielder-catcher poked out a nice single in the fourth and stole second. Joe Shandro came through with the necessary hit, a hard drive into left and Kelly crossed the plate for the Arrows' only run.

Doug Stevenson was the other member of Dick Speer's squad to negotiate the distance to the difficult corner presided over by Tommy Brant.

The energetic catcher rolled one right through Klingspon at second in the eighth frame and galloped around to third on the error.

As a matter of fact Kelly and Stevenson were the only two of the losers to see even second base. Joe Shandro was thrown out on an attempted steal and after nicking Lindberg for his second hit was forced at second. Tom Heaton was also forced. These two came the closest of the other Arrows in having a look at the keystone-sack.

Dodgers made five of their runs in the third on four hits and a pair of errors.

Don. McIntyre, who in five trips to the plate in two games has clicked for four safeties, started the trouble by dropping an innocent looking fly in short centre. Brant also hit to centre.

Lindberg struck out, but Tougas was safe on Patry's error, one run coming in and Ken Samis also singled, scoring Brant. Another error at third and Stevenson's overthrow to second set the stage for Stu Jones to send Bourasso in with the fifth run.

Stu Jones opened the eighth with a single, was sacrificed to second by Klingspon and came in on McIntyre's third bingle.

Leo Ornest was on the mound for the Arrows and he did a good job. It was only in the third that he had any serious grief and the three errors behind him didn't help. He struck out eight and walked only two.

Phil Farley Sets Pace Ontario Golf

TORONTO, July 3—(CP)—Phil Farley of Toronto Scarboro Thursday toured the Cedarbrae golf course here in 66 strokes to set the pace in the opening 18-hole round of the 36-hole open champinoship of the Ontario Golf Association.

He finished just one stroke over the competitive course record of 65 set in the 1940 Canadian P.G.A. tourney by Stan Leonard of Calgary and Vancouver. Farley was out in par 36 and home in 30. He topped a field of 40 by two strokes.

In second place was Bill Lamb of Lambton, who shot 37 and 31 for 68. Lloyd Tucker of Kitchener Rodkaway finished third in the first day's match with a par 70, made up of 37 and 33.

To Rejoin Yanks

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 3—(AP)—Manager Joe McCarthy of New York Yankees, who is recuperating at his home from illness, said last night he will return to New York Saturday and rejoin the Yankees Sunday.

McCarthy added that he feels "So-So" and "In another week I'll be all right."

Maginot Line's Great Grandsire Sir Galahad 3rd

VANCOUVER, July 3. — (CP) — Dr. Lyon H. Appleby of Vancouver, whose three-year-old Maginot Line won the $5,000 added Canadian Derby at Winnipeg Wednesday, said yesterday the horse's victory came after 10 years of study and experiment in horse-breeding.

Maginot Line was sired by Dolan out of Bay Salute, which Dr. Appleby picked up in a local claiming race. The mare was by Petee-Wrack from Gallant Lady, the latter sired by the imported Sir Galahad 3rd. Dolan was by the Irish-bred Huon from Rooking Chair, which also came from imported stock.

When Maginot Line was a colt Dr. Appleby predicted some day he would "amaze the Canadian racing world." Regarding the three-year-old's victory Wednesday he said he never expected to beat the highly-touted Ten to Ace, which folded in the last stages of the race.

"I was actually shooting for second money," Dr. Appleby said, "but I did have a sort of faint hope Ten To Ace might fold up, choked by his own speed, and that's just what happened."

Looking them Over

MEETING last night, the executive of the Edmonton Junior Baseball League suspended the Maple Leaf Athletic Club's team from participation in league games for the remainder of the 1942 playing season.

This drastic action was taken as a result of the general indifference shown by Maple Leaf Athletic Club. Following dissatisfaction with the way the Maple Leaf team was being operated, the Junior League notified the executive of the Maple Leaf Athletic Club of temporary suspension as from June 26 and warned that a final decision would be made July 2. The indifference continued however, and no Maple Leaf representative attended last night's meeting.

However the Leaf players, who did their best to keep the team going despite lack of support by the parent organization, will all be given every opportunity to continue playing by joining any of the other three clubs in the league. Leafs desiring to do this are requested to contact Ralph Markin at once or see executives of the league at tonight's game at Renfrew Park between the Canadians and Henry Singer's Clothiers.

Players wishing to transfer will be asked to give their preference as to the teams they would like to join. Final allotting of Leaf players will be done at a joint meeting of the league executive and the coaches of the three remaining teams. Every effort will be made to keep all clubs as closely balanced in power as possible.

In passing the motion of suspension, the Junior League expressed regret that it had been forced to take such action and hoped that next season the Maple Leaf Athletic Club might find itself in a position to again operate a baseball team.

The league will continue the season as a three-club circuit consisting of the Canadian Athletic Club. MacKinnon's Cubs and Henry Singers' Clothiers. Present plans are for games to be played on the same nights as in the past. This will result in more games for all clubs and shonuld help materially in developing the boys. It also tightens the race up considerably.

Cubs' Protest Is Allowed

LAST night's meeting of the Junior Baseball League also allowed the formal protest made by Manager Bill MacKinnon of the Cubs over Tuesday's game between the Cubs and Canadians being called at the end of the fifth inning by Umpire Bob Coxford, Canadians were leading 13-12 at the time.

The executive washed the game out. This decision puts the Cubs in second place in the league standings with two wins and one loss while Singer's Clothiers are at the bottom with two wins and two losses. Canadians retain leadership with three wins and one loss.

Growing out of this protest came a discussion that resulted in the league adopting a rule that all games must go the full nine innings unless weather or darkness made it impossible.

Manning Depot Edges Out Moose In 11 Innings

Manning Depot had to go 11 innings for their 8-7 win over Moose in last night's senior men's softball fixture at Kingsway Park.

Herb McDonald yielded only a scratch hit up to the fourth when Jimmy Brault connected for a homer over left-field fence.

"Tiny" Davis took over the chucking for the Airmen in the eighth with the bases loaded and he kept up his average by striking out seven in the three and two-thirds innings he worked.

"Tiny" also gave up just one hit and in addition scored the winning run in the eleventh. He singled to short field, went to second when Tom Galbraith bunted safely and then the two worked a double steal.

The payoff counter came in when Doug. Stewart grounded out to first.

Manning Depot started with one run in the first innings, Jack Jones completing the circuit after getting a walk followed by two errors.

Initial counter for the Moose was Brault's homer in the fourth and they counted a pair in the fifth on hits by Mickey Checknita, Pete Hussar and Clarence Hays, plus an error and a sacrifice by Mel Ash.

Manning Depot's cluster of three in the sixth resulted from bingles by George Andrews and Sam Saperoff, a walk and two bad errors. Moose replied with one from a pass and Brault's two-bagger.

Two errors, a passed ball and hits by Dalmar and Checknita netted three for the Moose in the eighth, but the Airmen came back with a trio in the ninth on four errors, a walk and singles by Tom Galbraith and Doug. Stewart.

Singer's Will Play Canadians Tonight

Tonight at 7:15 p.m., down at Renfrew Park, Henry Singer's Clothiers tangle with the Canadian Athletic Club in a City Junior Baseball League game that promises to be one of the better offerings of this circuit.

Singer's fell to bottom place in the league standings as a result of suspension of the Maple Leafs for the balance of the season and the allowing of the Cubs' protest against the calling of their game with Canadians on Tuesday night when the score was standing at 13-12 against the Cubs after the fifth.

He borrowed the money from the rich Welser family, but never repaid the loan after he became German emperor. The money was used to bribe the seven German electors into voting for Charles.

Lack Pitching, Catching

American League Presents Weakened All-Star Team

NEW YORK, July 3—(AP)—Without much doubt, the American League will go into Monday's all star game here with one of the weakest teams it ever has mustered for its annual argument with the National League.

In particular, the junior circuit's pitching and catching—vitally important factors in such a tense contest where victory virtually rides on every pitch—appear to have reached an all-time low for the nine years the classic has been held.

It is necessary, in fact, to offer no further evidence than that Catcher Bill Dickey of the Yankees has a crippled shoulder and that Bobby Feller is in the navy to prove how drastically the American League's firepower has been reduced even since the game a year ago at Detroit.

Bob has left behind no successor who figures to chill the National Leaguers.

As for Dickey, there simply is no catcher in the game to fill the Yankee veteran's shoes. For years he has assured the Americans of an important advantage behind the plate, both for his slugging and his genius at handling pitchers.

Buddy Rosar Dickey's teammate, also was named on the Americans' all-star squad, but he has been unable to run for several days because of an injured leg. That leaves, for the time being, only Birdie Tebbetts of Detroit to backstop for the Americans, and while Birdie is one of the game's finest receivers his bat offers little threat.

Sure, the Americans still have two of the game's greatest natural sluggers in Ted Williams and Joe DiMaggio and a super-second baseman in Joe Gordon, but after those three have been named it would be difficult to pick a department in which they have not lost some of their once awesome power.

The National League all-star squad, by contrast, is about as strong as it ever was. This will be the ninth all-star contest for Mel Ott, Billy Herman and Joe Medwick. The National Leaguers do not change much.

HARRIDGE NAMES ALL-STAR LINEUP

CHICAGO, July 3.—(AP)—President Will Harridge of the American League last night announced the lineup of All-Stars who will take the field under Manager Joe McCarthy in the annual game with the National League all-stars in New York's Polo Grounds next Monday.

McCarthy, recuperating at his home in Buffalo, N.Y., from an attack of gall stones, has been advised by his physician that he will be able to assume leadership of the team, Harridge said.

McCarthy is undecided, however, on his positive starting lineup and therefore named two or more players for each position, with the exception of third base which will be filled by Ken Keltner of Cleveland Indians:

The lineup:

RF—Dimaggio (Boston) or Spence (Washington).
SS—Bouddeau (Cleveland) or Rizzuto (New York).
LF—Williams ,Boston) or Johnson (Philadelphia).
CF—Dimaggio (New York) or Henrich (New York).
1B—McQuinn (St. Louis) or York (Detroit).
2B—Gordon (New York) or Doerr (Boston).
3B—Keltner (Cleveland).
C—Dickey (New York), Tebbetts (Detroit), Rosar (New York).
P—To be named on day of game.

Frankie Frisch's Job Still Secure

PITTSBURGH,—July 3—(AP)—President William E. Benswanger of Pittsburgh Pirates said Thursday he is "perfectly satisfied" with Manager Frankie Frisch and is not shopping around for a replacement.

Although the head of the Bucs admitted "keen disappointment" at the showing of his sixth-place National League entry he said "reports that Frisch would be replaced are too ridiculous to deny."

"Frank is okay in my book," said Benswanger. "I think he's one of the best managers in baseball today."

Three Wins In Tennis Tourney

Jimmy Hoyle Scores 'Possible'

JIMMY HOYLE came through with another win in the Civil Service Tennis Club's tournament when Edna Kenwood and he captured the mixed doubles final from Dr. Hal. Richard and Frances Gordon last night.

Jimmy had previously won the singles title and later combined with President Lawson Caseley to take the doubles crown, thus making a complete sweep of the three major events he entered.

In other games played last night Lawson Caseley defeated Jack Peters 6-4, 7-5 and Charlie Gosman won from Vern Parks 6-1, 6-2 in the men's secondary singles.

Pat Hawkes beat Vada McMahon 6-4, 4-6, 6-3 in the semi-final of the ladies' secondary.

Tonight's 7.30 draw includes L. Caseley vs S. Armstrong; Sam Chow vs H. Richard and C. Gosman vs Bill Logan.

The final in the ladies' secondary singles between Pat Hawkes and Sophie Mighall is also being played tonight.

New Nazi Plane Engine Declared Finest In World

LONDON, July 3. — (CP) — The magazine Aeroplane said yesterday that Germany had stolen a march on the world by producing the most advanced aircraft engine now in operation. The engine, called a BMW-801, produces 1,580 horsepower for take-offs and 1,460 horsepower at 16,300 feet. A special cowling design probably gives it the equivalent of several hundred extra horsepower, Aeroplane said. "We are likely to have a great deal of trouble with the new BMW-801 in new German airplanes in the future. It is already installed in the Focke-wulf-190," the magazine said.

Ted Williams In Wrong Over Loafing, Sulking

BOSTON, July 3.—(AP)—Ted Williams, heavy-hitting outfielder of the Boston Red Sox, was fined $250 and given a semi-public "dressing-down" Thursday because of his loafing and sulking Wednesday when he was ridden by the fans during a doubleheader with Washington Senators.

Joe Cronin, Red Sox manager, announced the fine despite a public apology by Williams, and added:

"I felt it necessary, also, to dress him down in front of the entire ball club."

Cronin called a meeting of his players at Fenway Park shortly before yesterday's game with Washington was called off because of weather, and gave his slugger a chance to apologize to his teammates before he, himself, stepped in.

Before the clubhouse meeting Thursday, Williams was contrite and told newsmen he had been "very childish" and wanted to "get back in the game."

Cronin intimated to the baseball writers that Williams would be back in left field today when the Red Sox, who have won 20 of their last 24 games and now are only three games behind the New York Yankees, open a three-game series with the champions in a twilight contest.

After reviewing the incidents that angered the crowd into jeering Williams Wednesday, Cronin said:

"Williams said before they can't boo him. Well it's the privilege of the fans who pay their way in to boo anyone they think is not doing his best. If Williams wants to play for the Red Sox, he's going to hustle or he won't be in there."

Mayfair Golfer Beats Vince Mohs

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

RED DEER, July 3.—Glen Gray, a member of the Mayfair Golf and Country club, Edmonton, became the new Central Alberta golf champion here on Thursday night when he defeated a fellow Edmontonian, Vince Mohs, of the Municipal club, 3 and 1 in the finals.

It was the twentieth annual Central Alberta tournament under auspices of the Red Deer Golf and Country Club. Play opened on Wednesday morning with a good entry of eighty-two, representing fifteen different points in the province.

The course was in perfect shape and the weather was good, although hot, both days. The tourney was well handled and playing of the final of the championship flight brought a most successful event to a close.

While C. M. Anderson of Calgary, shot a 72 to win the low qualifying prize, he was closely pressed by the title holder, Gray, who turned in a card of 73. Mohs, runner-up to Gray, was right up there with a 74.

In the first round Gray beat R. Patton, Calgary and turned back another Calgary man, E. C. Leneveu, to enter the semi-finals. Here he eliminated the medallist, C. M. Anderson.

In the lower part of the draw, Mohs defeated R. V. Bray, Calgary, in the first round and took the measure of B. Freeborn, Calgary, to reach the semi-finals. A win over W. Gostick, also of Edmonton, put Mohs into the final.

In the final, Gray won the first hole with a par 5. The next was halved and Mohs evened the match on the third. Gray took the next pair and they halved the sixth. Gray was one under par for the seventh and Mohs rallied to win the next two.

Starting the second half, Mohs evened the match by winning the first hole. Gray came back to win the next two and they halved the thirteen with birdie 2's. Gray shot a birdie on the fourteenth while Mohs made the hole in a par 5. They halved the next in par 4's. The municipal golfer won the next hole in par but Gray came back to end the match on the seventeenth hole.

Prizes were pretty well distributed, winners included players from Edmonton, Calgary, Lacombe, Innisfail, Drumheller, Munson, Vegreville, Irricana, Camrose, Olds and Red Deer.

Jack Taylor as tournament secretary handled the draws efficiently and kept play moving smartly all through. Officials of the Red Deer club were on hand to look after the visitors.

Complete results of the tournament follow:

Western Boxing Federation Okays Calgary Fight

While the Western Canada Boxing and Wrestling federation will recognize the July 4 welterweight fight between Maxie Berger of Montreal and Al Lust of Medicine Hat at Calgary as a Canadian title affair, it was learned here Thursday that the Canadian federation will not recognize the bout as such.

Frank Heller, secretary of the western federation, said Wednesday night the fight would be recognized by the Western Canada federation.

Both Lust and Berger have been working out at Calgary and both are reported in top form. Lust, now a member of the Canadian (active) army, has announced this fight will be his last for the duration of the war.

YOUR SCRAP METAL URGENTLY NEEDED!

This New Method makes Scrap Metal Collection easy for you.

More scrap steel and iron is urgently needed for more ships, tanks, planes, guns and munitions. You are asked to do your part by turning in every available ounce of scrap metal from your farm.

In order to facilitate the systematic collection of scrap iron and steel in the three Prairie Provinces, the Wartime Salvage Limited, a Government Company, has completed arrangements with the following Western Canadian Elevators for collection and purchase of scrap iron and steel:

Alberta Wheat Pool. Saskatchewan Pool Elevators.
Manitoba Pool Elevators Ltd. United Grain Growers Limited.
North-West Line Elevator Association.

These Companies handle and purchase this material on behalf of the Government without cost to the Government, and without profit to themselves. Any monies received over and above the actual cost of handling will be donated to War Charities.

An Agent of one of the above named Elevator Companies has been appointed in your district as an official buyer on behalf of the Wartime Salvage Limited. The price to be paid by these Agents has been fixed by the Department of Munitions & Supply at $7.00 per net ton at the elevator, for all forms of scrap iron and steel excluding: (a) Sheet tin of any kind; (b) Automobile bodies and fenders; (c) Stovepipe; and (d) Wooden attachments.

This price applies at any designated point in the Prairie Provinces.

Your contribution to the war effort and to war charities is simplified by this arrangement and it will be more effective inasmuch as you now can take your scrap metal to the Elevator designated in your district and obtain a receipt for it from the Agent.

Should you desire to donate your scrap to the war effort, then such receipt voucher can be endorsed by you, payable to the Voluntary Salvage Committee in your community. The Voluntary Salvage Committee will use such money for war charitable purposes.

Your contribution of scrap iron and steel is urgently needed NOW. Dig out every available ounce of scrap on your farm and take it to the Elevator Agent nearest you without delay. Canadian war industry needs it badly.

Chicago Gains Are Wiped Out

CHICAGO, July 3—(AP)—Flour business and demand for wheat from milling interests gave the futures market an upward thrust today but early gains of a cent a bushel were wiped out in a subsequent retreat.

Late selling was blamed on hedging sales in connection with the new crop movement.

Wheat closed ⅛-½ cent lower, oats ¼ off to ⅛ up and rye ¼-½ lower.

Market Letters

WINNIPEG, July 3—There was again practically no trade in wheat futures at Winnipeg today. July wheat was in demand from millers and in line with the wheat board policy the price was advanced 1-16 because of reduced carrying charges. This price will be advanced 1-16 every two days during the month of July. There were no indications of export business in either wheat or flour. The weather continues ideal with higher temperatures in Saskatchewan and Alberta registering a maximum of 92 in southern Alberta points. Crop reports continue uniformly optimistic.

CHICAGO, July 3—Opening prices at Chicago today were ⅛ to 1c higher as a result of good buying for milling accounts reflecting substantial purchases by large eastern chain bakers. Later the market sold off as a result of hedging sales from the southwest and because of developments at Washington where the President again reaffirmed his position with respect to government selling of wheat for feed at 85 per cent of corn parity. The President's stand is that this is necessary to assure production of meat and dairy products. Meantime the deadlock between the house and senate continues with no indication of any solution.

LONDON STOCKS

LONDON, July 3.—(AP)—British resistance at El Alamein caused bear covering in today's stock market and the close was firm around the day's best levels.

British funds were firm and foreign bonds steady.

Industrials finished generally high. Home rails were firmer. Oils were strong. Kaffir Development shares advanced. Cape Town inquiry finding the market short of stock.

LIVESTOCK TRAFFIC

EDMONTON, July 3—Receipts for Thursday: Trucked, driven and shipped by rail to local livestock agencies: Cattle 302, calves 130, hogs 609, sheep 64.

Trading Lags On Grain Exchange

WINNIPEG, July 3—(CP)—At the close of a featureless session on the Winnipeg grain exchange today wheat future remained unchanged, July at 80⅜ and October at 90 cents a bushel.

Trading lagged and one or two minor trades in the July wheat were the only transaction.

There were no signs of export business. Chicago wheat was up ¼.

Odd lots of No. 1 Northern changed hands in the cash wheat market and a few odd cars of the lower grades were taken by shippers, but other business was at a standstill.

A little local selling in coarse grains was prompted by favorable crop reports. Prices in oats, barley and rye eased slightly.

Country marketings yesterday were 833,000 bushels compared to 603,000 bushels a year ago. Grain inspections at Winnipeg totalled 1,127 cars yesterday compared to 1,684 the same day a year ago.

Chicago Grain Trade

CHICAGO, July 3—Opening prices for wheat were ⅛ to 1 cent higher; July relatively not as strong as deferred months. Good buying of the latter by several of the commission houses and thought to be for milling account. Offerings have been moderate. Corn started ⅛ to ¼c higher in sympathy with wheat. Buying was light and scattered in character but offerings were very limited. Oats opened ⅛ to ¼c higher and some local selling of Sept. developed rye firmer with wheat unchanged to ¼c higher—small scattered commission house buying—soy beans were slow in opening and finally trading started at steady prices.

Argentine estimated exportable grain surpluses. The exportable surplus of wheat remaining in the Argentine this week is estimated by Broomhall at 192,394,000 bus. compared with 146,649,000 bus. a yera ago. Corn 429,35-000 bus. vs 474,637,000 a year ago. Oats 12,739,000 bus. Barley 12,993,000 bus. Rye 9,200,000 bus.

War Casualties Land In States

NEW YORK, July 3.—(AP)—A United States army transport docked here yesterday with at least 241 survivors, many of them wounded, of the war in the Far East.

U.S. navy press officers authorized ship newsmen to report that the ship bore 51 United States survivors, 114 British survivors, 73 military personnel, and three high ranking officers. This breakdown was not explained further.

The press officers said the men were survivors of battles in the Orient, the Burma Road, Singapore, Australia, and ship sinking.

Thirty-four of the survivors were victims of a torpedoed United Nations' merchant ship sunk off New Caledonia in the southwest Pacific. Ambulances were sent to the pier.

Fusiliers Unit Active Service Is Now 3rd Bn.

Unit of the Edmonton Fusiliers, now being recruited for active service, following a mobilization order some weeks ago, has been designated as the 3rd Battalion of the Edmonton Fusiliers.

The Regiment, therefore, has three battalions at the moment. There is the 1st Bn., Edmonton Fusiliers, that has been on active service since soon after the outbreak of the present war; the 2nd Bn, Edmonton Fusiliers, Canadian Army Reserve, which is to continue as a Reserve Army unit; according to present plans, and the unit now being recruited for active service, which will be the 3rd Bn of the Edmonton Fusiliers.

Lt.-Col. H. B. Jamieson, who had been in command of the Reserve battalion, will command the 3rd Battalion on active service.

Lt.-Col. Jamieson will leave with the officers and other ranks who have already signed for active service with the 3rd Bn., Edmonton Fusiliers, for Calgary on Saturday. Recruiting for the unit will continue at the Sarcee training centre.

GOING TO CAMP

In the meantime the 2nd Bn., Edmonton Fusiliers, Canadian Army (Reserve), will be under the temporary command of Lt.-Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., Edmonton Area Commandant.

Lt.-Col. Brown will take the Reserve Army unit to Sarcee Camp on Saturday.

Recruiting for the 3rd Bn. has been making good progress, with the officer personnel of the Reserve unit mobilizing for active service on a near 100 per cent basis, it is reported by Lt.-Col. Jamieson.

It was announced Friday that "D" Company of the unit, formerly located at Lacombe, has been mobilized and a large number of men have enlisted for active service.

This unit was recruited in August, 1940. Both active and reserve men are preparing to attend Sarcee Camp, commencing this week-end.

Maj. John McDonald, M.C., who has commanded the Lacombe company, is expected to hold an important post in the active unit. It is thought he may become second in command of the active service unit.

Maj. McDonald is a veteran of the First Great War, having enlisted with the 151st Bn., C.E.F., Edmonton. He was transferred to the Winnipeg Grenadiers, with which unit he served with distinction. He won a commission and was awarded the Military Cross with the Grenadiers in France.

Peonies Blooming Better Than Ever

Contrary to general belief that the early frosts last month had completely damaged all peony crops in the Edmonton district, this year's flowers are "bigger and better" than in past years, it was stated on Friday by August Klaus of the Silver Heights Peony Gardens.

The blooms are more numerous than in past years, he stated, and are "even more gorgeous" than usual.

Annual Training Period Will See Intensified Training For Troops

First contingents from six Edmonton Reserve Army units will entrain Saturday night for Sarcee camp, where they will go under canvas from July 4 to July 18 inclusive.

Second contingents of the same units will move in at the conclusion of the training period given the first, from July 19 to August 2. Large crowds are expected to turn out and cheer the troops on their way.

Arrangements have been completed for entrainment of the Reserve Army units, it was announced Friday by Lt.-Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., area commandant. The area commandant has taken temporary command of the 2nd Bn., Edmonton Fusiliers, (R) C.A., and will be in charge of that unit at camp.

Three of the smaller units, the 4th (Reserve) Divisional Armored Troops Coy, under the command of Capt. G. S. Crossley; the 61st Bty, R.C.A., (R) C.A.; under Maj. Nelles V. Buchanan, M.C.; and No. 4 Casualty Clearing Station, R.C.A.M.C., (R) C.A., under Lt.-Col. Hastings Mewburn, will entrain from the north side C.P.R. station on special cars at 10:45 p.m.

AT C.P.R.

The 1st Army Workshop Coy, Canadian Army (Reserve), will leave fom the South Side C.P.R. depot at 12:00 p.m. midnight.

First contingents of the two largest Reserve units: the 2nd Bn. of the Edmonton Fusiliers, under the temporary command of Lt.-Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., and the 2nd Bn., Edmonton Regiment, under Lt.-Col. R. Walter Hale, M.C., will leave by special train from the north side C.P.R. station some time after 12:00 o'clock midnight.

SERIOUS BUSINESS

With Canada's west coast directly menaced this summer, training of Reserve Army troops is now a highly serious business. All units attending camp are expected to undergo the toughest training schedule that reserve troops have ever gome through.

Few exemptions have been granted to officers or other ranks from attendance at camp. And exemptions were only granted where the man exempted proved he was occupying a position of supreme importance to the establishment with which he was employed.

Highwood River Now Flowing In Normal Channel

The Highwood river which overflowed its banks this spring, causing extensive flood damage in the High River district, is now flowing along its normal channel, according to Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works.

It is estimated the flood caused damage of approximately $300,000, one of the largest items of damage being the destruction of a breakwater which cost about $60,000 to build. The provincial government has sought financial assistance from the dominion in reconstructing the breakwater, but no offer of aid has been made by federal authorities to date, according to Mr. Fallow.

After flood water had subsided rock was used to build up portions of the bank where the river had overflowed, the river thus being diverted back into its normal channel.

Woman Suffers Two Fractures Of Bones

Mrs. Dorothy Kirkman, 11006 106 avenue, suffered fractures to two ankle bones when she was struck by a car at the intersection of 100 street and Jasper avenue at 2:50 p.m. Thursday.

Driver of the car was Anton E. Bawol, Leduc, who had stopped at the intersection to allow Mrs. Kirkman and two other pedestrians to pass, but is believed to have started on his way too soon to avoid striking Mrs. Kirkman.

The victim was thrown to the pavement and suffered a fractured ankle. She was taken to a nearby doctor's office where it was revealed that two bones in her ankle were broken.

Getting Around

with

Jack DeLong

Although it is many days since there has been an official navy or army communique on operations in the Aleutians, it seems unlikely we have heard the last of Japanese ventures around the northwestern coasts of this continent.

An article in the most recent issue of The New Republic by Alexander Kiralfy might be of interest to Canadians at this time. It is entitled, "Japan's Alaskan Strategy."

The writer starts off with the observation that inasmuch as Axis strategy has so far been strictly offensive there is reason to seek for "deeper meanings of hostile ventures in Alaskan waters."

He dismisses the theory advanced at the time of the bombing of Dutch Harbor that the attack was made to divert attention from other areas. As the bombing of Dutch Harbor preceded the Midway Island attack by only a few hours there are no grounds for the belief the Japanese intended to lure forces from the central Pacific, he contends.

An all-out attack at present against Alaska with an American ally on the flank is also not good

Lad Falls Truck: Skull Fractured

Falling off the back of his father's truck at 9:40 p.m. Thursday, Buster Congden, 11353 95 street, was admitted to the Royal Alexandra hospital suffering from a fractured skull.

The 10-year-old lad was riding in the back of the truck together with three other boys and as the driver of the truck approached 123 avenue on 97 street, one of the boys called to the driver to stop, as Buster had fallen off.

The boy was found lying on the pavement bleeding profusely from his mouth, ears and nose. He was taken to the Royal Alexandra hospital by Joe Johnson, 8328 Jasper avenue, who happened to drive by at the time.

The truck, driven by Clinton Congden, 14, had a low truck box with no end gate.

Arrives Overseas

Sgt. Jack McCartney, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. McCartney, 9511 117 avenue, who arrived safely overseas some time ago and has since visited his birth-place at County Down, Ireland. Sgt. McCartney came to Edmonton from Ireland at the age of seven and took all his schooling here. He attended Parkdale school. During his school days he was a Bulletin carrier helper on 89 and 90 street and was a community league hockey player.

Kiwanis Kapers Will Be Played For Air Force

Members of the R.C.A.F. at No. 3 Manning Depot, their wives and friends will be guests in the Arena Friday at 8:30 p.m. when the Edmonton Kiwanis Glee Club will present their now famous show "Kiwanis Kapers of 1942".

The program is made possible by kind permission of Wing Commander W. G. Webber, officer commanding the depot.

Some 25 voices under Ed. McGarvey will entertain together with a number of guest artists. Alex M. MacDonald will act as master of ceremonies.

Those on the program include: Mrs. Betty Simms, pianist; Lin Jordon, comic sketches; Jack Toulson on the Hammond electric organ loaned by W. G. Strachan of Heintzman and Company; Mrs. Mary McPherson and group in specialty dances; Bob McPherson, piper; Miss Berneice McBeth, vocal soloist; W. G. Strachan, flute; Jack Strachan and Alex Cameron comedy skit.

50 Naval Ratings Obtain Outfits

Members of the Navy Mothers' League of Edmonton will outfit 50 naval ratings each month with turtle-neck sweaters, scarves, helmets, gloves, mitts and socks, it was announced by a spokesman of the league Friday.

In addition, 150 pairs of mitts, knitted from a specially prepared wool, were turned into the Navy League this week for use by ratings engaged in minesweepers.

This wool has been lacquered to prevent slipping on the ropes as the dangerous mines are being handled by the crew.

The largest contingent of naval ratings ever to leave Edmonton was posted to different naval stations in Canada this week.

Postpone Inquest On Worker's Death

Inquest into the death of Ronald Ouelett, who was killed in an accident while working on a packing plant construction project June 24, has been postponed indefinitely, Detective Coroner William McDonald, announced Friday.

The inquest was originally called for 2:30 p.m. Friday, but owing to the condition of George Brown, Ouelett's co-worker, who was seriously injured in the accident, it was decided to postpone the inquest to a later date. Det. McDonald stated that in all likelihood the hearing will be held next week, but the exact date has not yet been chosen.

Ask Residents Fly "Old Glory" To Honor U.S.

In honor of United States Allies and because of the presence of a large number of Americans in Edmonton, citizens are urged to fly American flags in juxtaposition to Canadian flags and the Union Jack. This appeal is especially made as a gesture on July 4, which is the Americans' greatest national holiday.

Honor Soldier Active Service For Efficiency

With all troops at the Edmonton Garrison forming a hollow square in a special parade at the Prince of Wales Armory, Company Quartermaster Sergeant F. T. Chinn, 19th Alberta Dragoons, now on active service, was decorated with the Canadian Efficiency Medal Friday morning.

Lt.-Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., Area Commandant, made the presentation at the request of Lt.-Col. Alan Elliott, Officer Commanding No. 13A District Depot.

After pinning the medal on the tunic of C.Q.S. Chinn, Lt.-Col. Brown congratulated the N.C.O. on his long and meritorious service.

The Efficiency Medal is awarded to those serving 12 continuous years in the Canadian Army (Reserve), who have attended 12 outings to camp.

Awards of a similar nature are being made in all parts of Canada during Army Week.

Street Cars In Accidents With Auto Vehicles

Street cars were involved in two traffic accidents Thursday. In one instance two street cars participated in a "squeeze play" with a car driven by James Langston, 10539 98 street, as the victim.

Langston stopped a few feet behind one tram while another street car pulled up behind Langston. At this time the street car in front backed up slowly to clear the switch and struck Langston's car. Langston in turn backed up and crashed into the tram behind him.

The accident occurred on Jasper avenue between 97 and 98 streets at midnight Thursday.

CRASH OCCURS

At 4:05 p.m. Thursday Mrs. Elsie Samuel, Winfield, Alta., became involved with a tram at the intersection of 101 street and 103 avenue, when her car was struck by a street car.

Mrs. Samuel was turning off 103 avenue to go north along 101 street when a street car going north struck her car. The auto was pushed along the track for about 18 feet. The right rear corner of the car was damaged.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

Two years ago France fell and the nations of the democracy faced disaster. Are the perils facing the United Nations as great as when France fell?

THE ANSWERS

GERALD O'CONNOR, K.C., barrister: The Hun still hovers over the Channel. But the word invasion conjures up in people's minds an adventure utterly different from that contemplated 24 months ago. Europe's shoreline, not the white cliffs of Dover, witnessed the landing of shock troops in 1942. Those intrepid men we call Commandos are but the scouting parties which precede the mass assault which one day must come.

JACK CAMPBELL, caretaker: The situation today is perilous, but not nearly so desperate as in the days immediately following the fall of France. We are no longer fighting alone. Two hundred million Russians and one hundred and thirty million Americans are fighting with us. The greatest industrial resources and the mass of the world's manpower are on our side. Twenty-six United Nations face a foe made desperate by frustration of schemes which were to have achieved for him final victory months ago. For the Axis every hour lost means a loss in strength. For us every hour is an added gain.

HARRY FRASER, bookkeeper: The tempo of the war on many fronts is increasing. Freedom's future hangs in the balance. We must not be dismayed by disasters, nor elated by unexpected victories. We must remember this is a war on many fronts, and that we do not fight alone.

Men Take Marriage Better Than Wives Do

Domesticity Leaves Women Free to Mull Over What Might Have Been; Men Meet a Difficult Situation With More Show of Sportsmanship

Dorothy Dix

A correspondent asks who stand the wear and tear of marriage better—men or women? Men apparently, for although we hear a great deal about the faithful and devoted wife and very little about the faithful and devoted husband, statistics show that in the great majority of divorce cases it is the wife who is the petitioner. And in a recent questionnaire, in which 100 married couples were asked how they liked the holy estate, far more husbands than wives replied that they were happy and contented in it.

This would seem to indicate that there are more good wives than there are good husbands, but common observance does not bear this theory out. Looking about among our married friends it seems to us, so far as livability is concerned, husbands and wives appear to be cut off the same bolt of cloth, and that there are just as many domestic martyrs of one sex as of the other. For if Mr. A. has a wandering foot, Mrs. A. has a perpetual-motion tongue; and if Mr. B. is a groucher, Mrs. B. is a henpecker, and so on down the long list of major and minor grievances that make the matrimonial route hard to travel.

Doubtless husbands have just as much to stand from their wives as wives have to endure from their husbands, but there is no denying that men meet the situation with more sportsmanship than women do. A man, for instance, rarely criticizes his wife to others, or makes a bid for the sympathy of his friends by telling what a poor housekeeper Mary is, or how Jane keeps his nose to the grindstone because of her extravagance, or how Maud nags the life out of him.

But where women gather together for a talkfest, the main topic of conversation is the faults and foibles of their husbands, and their favorite diversion is weeping on each other's breast and moaning out that their hearts are broken because their husbands take them for granted.

NEVER SMEARS HERSELF

Also, it is not uncommon for a husband to manufacture the evidence on which his wife gets a divorce—when she has become tired of him—in order to save her face, but you never hear of a woman smearing her own character, or letting herself be branded as being guilty of cruel and inhuman treatment of her husband in order to let him get a divorce to marry her rival.

The reason that men can take the ups and downs of marriage with more philosophy than women is probably because they are more realistic about their attitude toward life. They don't ask too much of it, marriage included. They know that nothing ever quite comes up to our expectations; that we have to work and sweat for all we get; that no undertaking is going to be all profit and no loss. So if their wives are reasonably cheerful and amiable and fairly good housekeepers they content themselves with their bargains.

But women can't do this because no amount of education or sophistication keeps them from believing in fairy tales, and that, no matter what has happened to their sisters and their cousins and their mothers, their marriages are going to be love idyls that will never grow stale, never lose their thrills, never outlive their romance. They expect to be perpetual brides, trailing clouds of glory for forty or fifty years.

THEY CAN'T TAKE IT

When this doesn't happen, when their marriage comes down to earth with a dull, cold thud and is filled with work and worry, and babies, and stretching dollars, and a husband who is more concerned over the state of the stock market than he is over the state of his heart, they simply can't take it without squawking to heaven about marriage being a failure.

If a man's marriage isn't all his fondest fancy painted, he has a consolation prize in his career. He has his work, which is the universal panacea for whatever ails us. He has something to think about besides his disillusion in discovering that Arabella is a human being instead of the pin-feathered angel he thought she was.

But the curse of domesticity for a woman is that while it employs her hands, it leaves her mind free to mull over her disappointment that marriage landed her in a two-by-four flat instead of an ivory tower, and to dream of what might have been if only she had espoused a career instead of a husband, or married the man she didn't marry.

So the reason that men are more content with marriage than women are, is because men take marriage as is, while women yearn for it as it isn't.

What To Do

Will you please suggest some suitable gift to present to a man entering the army.

Answer—Remember that whatever he takes with him must be easily moved, so make your gift small and compact.

A pen and pencil set is a nice gift, a tiny portable radio would be appreciated. May men like indentification bracelets, but be sure you have them properly engraved. Tiny, pocket sized picture holders, wallets with a space for identification cards are nice.

Whatever you do, don't load him up with sweet smelling shaving lotions and fancy soaps. Don't knit him sweaters and socks until requested—and even then, don't do it unless you can do an expert job.

McCoy Health Service

Suggested menus for the week commencing Sunday, July 5, 1942:

SUNDAY—Breakfast: Glass of milk; grapefruit as desired. Lunch: *Broiled new potatoes with parsley butter sauce; green peas; lettuce and celery. Dinner: Baked ham with whole tomatoes; buttered string beans; lettuce and endive salad; Jello or Jell-Well.

MONDAY—Breakfast: Coddled eggs; Melba toast; stewed prunes. Lunch: Steamed artichoke, served with butter; sliced cucumbers with lettuce. Dinner: Lima bean loaf; cooked spinach and parsley; grated raw carrot salad; small dish of Junket.

TUESDAY — Breakfast: Whole-wheat muffins; peanut butter; stewed figs. Lunch: Fresh asparagus on toast. Dinner: Spring soup; flank steak with vegetables, boiled; chopped cabbage and celery salad; pineapple whip.

WEDNESDAY — Breakfast: French omelet; Melba toast; stewed raisins. Lunch: Stewed corn; raw spinach and celery salad. Dinner: Broiled mutton chops; buttered beets; string beans; head lettuce with olive oil dressing; stewed apricots.

THURSDAY — Breakfast: Baked stuffed apple with cream. Lunch: Potato soup; string bean salad. Dinner: Roast beef; carrots roasted with meat; buttered asparagus; crisp celery; peaches (canned halves) with a dash of whipped cream.

FRIDAY — Breakfast: Coddled eggs; toasted cereal biscuits; stewed apricots. Lunch: Salad of tomatoes, lettuce and cucumbers. Dinner: Baked sea bass; baked stuffed tomatoes; buttered parsnips; lettuce and watercress salad; Jello or Jell-Well.

SATURDAY — Breakfast: Breadcrumb breakfast food. Lunch: Carrot custard; celery and ripe olives. Dinner: Broiled steak with mushrooms; cooked greens; salad of chopped raw cabbage with bits of pimiento; minced prunes in gelatin.

*Broiled New Potatoes With Parsley Sauce: Scrape potatoes and drop in boiling water. The time depends upon the size and kind of potatoes. Usually 30 minutes will be sufficient, but the test is to pierce the potato with a steel fork. If it goes in take the potatoes out. Put in colander over boiling water, cover with a napkin for a few minutes to absorb the moisture.

Prepare parsley butter sauce by melting a piece of butter the size of an egg over a slow flame, add a level tablesponful of finely chopped parsley and a teaspoonful of finely chopped celery leaves. Pour over the potatoes just before serving.

All questions regarding Health and Diet will be answered. Large, stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, 1151 West 6th St., Los Angeles, Calif.

Home Shorthand Course Help in Business Life

Symbols Simple to Learn

She's never caught in a rut—the worker who increases her value from year to year. If you seem to be standing still in business, think—perhaps you should learn something more, shorthand, perhaps!

You can teach yourself shorthand and it's a wanted skill which is bound to add to your business value.

Hard to learn shorthand by yourself? No, the Pitman system is simple. You write by sound, not by spelling, and there aren't many sounds. For each you learn an easily written symbol—"M" an arch, "A" a dot, "K" a dash.

To write "make" you'd join the "M" arch to the "K" dash, putting the "A" dot under the arch. You don't write "E" because you don't hear it in the word "make."

But now shorthand becomes even simpler! To help you keep up with your boss' dictation there are "short forms" for long words. "Representative" (thirteen sounds!) is like an upside-down V with a hook.

Our 32-page booklet gives 18 easy, step-by-step lessons for home study in Pitman shorthand. Has exercises, short forms to help you acquire accuracy and professional speed. Can serve as a foundation for a business college course.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "Self-Instruction in Shorthand" to The Edmonton Bulletin Home Service, 60 Front street, Toronto, Ontario. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Please allow a week or ten days for delivery.

Coast "Time" Gun Is Silenced For Duration Of War

VANCOUVER, July 3.—(CP)—Vancouver's famous nine o'clock gun, which has been fired as a time signal at 9 p.m. P.D.T., almost every night since being set up in Stanley Park in 1894, will be silent for the duration. The aged cannon, which was cast in England 126 years ago, was fired for the last time last Sunday night. Its nightly blast has been eliminated to save explosives.

Minute Make-Ups

"Blue In The Night"—the song inspires a new makeup! Blue mascara on light lashes is divinely lovely at night and it's even lovely on dark lashes! Blue eyeshadow, smoothed and blended over the eyelids, gives a nice, dusky eye makeup. A blue-red rouge and lipstick gives "true blue" flattery. And to really top it off, fasten a Blue Bird in your hair!

SAFEWAY Homemakers' Guide

NUMBER 58 ★ Interesting tricks for picnics ★ Fine foods as low priced on Monday as on Saturday ★ About helping yourself to help your Country

How to save time by saving money

Here's really an easy way to avoid tiresome Saturday shopping crowds and save just as much money, too. No matter what day you do your week's shopping you'll save at Safeway because Safeway's modern way of doing business results in savings which are passed on to you in low prices on every item, every day of the week.

How to have more fun on week-ends right in your own back yard

There's nothing that's quite as much fun as a picnic—especially a picnic right in your own back yard. And because picnics are becoming more popular every day (what with the tire and gasoline situation) the Safeway Homemakers' Bureau presents here these menus that should make any picnic more fun.

LAWN PICNIC

[Have each family bring something

Kidney Beans and Spareribs
Coleslaw with Diced Apple and Green Pepper
Buttered Rye Bread
Slabs of Cheese
Ice Cream and Cake
Coffee or Root Beer

KIDNEY BEANS WITH SPARERIBS

- 1½ lbs. spareribs cut in 2-rib pieces
- 1 tbsp. shortening
- ½ cup finely chopped onion
- ¼ tsp. finely chopped garlic
- 1¼ cups meat stock
- ½ cup finely chopped carrots
- ¼ tsp. thyme
- 1 tsp. salt
- 2 cups cooked kidney beans

Brown spareribs in hot shortening in heavy frying pan. Add onion and garlic; cook about 3 minutes, stirring frequently. Place spareribs in casserole. Combine meat stock (or 2 bouillon cubes dissolved in 1¼ cups boiling water), seasonings, and beans; pour over spareribs; cover. Bake in slow oven (325° F.) about 1 hour or until spareribs are tender. Serves 6.

Here's a quick and easy menu for a back yard barbecue

BARBECUE

Make your own sandwiches

Broiled Cube Steaks
(Cooked on green-pointed sticks or toasting forks)
Toasted Buns
Sliced Tomatoes and Onions
Lettuce

Mrs. Conquest To Show Red Cross Articles Saturday

Mrs. M. H. Conquest, the "Red Cross Radio Lady," will have charge of a display of Red Cross articles in the Hudson's Bay Company store on Saturday. The display will feature all articles made for the fighting forces and parcels for prisoners of war. Knitted articles made by many women's organizations throughout the city for the Canadian Red Cross will be shown at this time. The display is in keeping with Army Week activities in the city.

GIRL GUNS GREASE!

MAKING automobiles last longer—run smoother—is Anne Snelling's contribution to the war effort. Another case of a girl doing a man's job—and doing it well. But it takes all the vim and energy she has. No wonder she's a booster for the "Self-Starter" Breakfast! Says a big bowl of Kellogg's Corn Flakes with milk and sugar helps her sail through her working day. Will help you, too. Parties Fete Bride-To-Be Of Saturday

To honor Miss Dorothy Stockdill, whose marriage to Dr. A. E. Caldwell takes place Saturday evening at 7:30 p.m. many attractive teas and showers have been given recently.

On Wednesday afternoon Mrs. J. H. Stockdill, mother of the bride-elect entertained at a trousseau reception in honor of her daughter. To receive Mrs. Stockdill chose a printed summer silk afternoon frock. Miss Stockdill wore a teal colored crepe street-length frock styled along princess lines.

For the affair the rooms were decorated with fragrant peonies in shades of deep rose, pink and white. In the dining room the table was set with a lace cloth centred with a bouquet of shaggy peonies and tall green tapers.

Pouring during the afternoon were Mrs. A. G. Caldwell, mother of the bridegroom-elect, and Mrs. E. B. Shera. Mrs. W. Powell and Miss Anna Swift served. Miss Elizabeth Zinkan showed the trousseau.

Miss Stockdill was guest of honor recently at a tea given by Mrs. A. G. Caldwell when more than 25 guests were present. Pouring tea were Mrs. J. H. Stockdill and Mrs. J. A. Mair.

The teachers at Alberta College, where Miss Stockdill held a position, entertained at tea at the college for the bride-elect. At the week-end Miss Norma Freifield was hostess at a luncheon at the Purple Lantern. Thursday evening Miss Elizabeth Zinkan entertained 12 guests in compliment to Miss Stockdill at a kitchen shower.

Esther Knies Is Married In Vegreville

Two attendants, one in buttercup yellow and the other in apple green preceded Esther Knies, R.N., down the aisle of the United Church in Vegreville on Monday, when she became the bride of Mr. Frederick Steininger, R.C.M.P. of Red Deer. The Rev. G. D. Armstrong officiated. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L Knies, and the bridegroom is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Steininger of Sintaluta, Sask.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride was charmingly gowned in floor-length white satin, and lace frock fashioned on princess lines. Her veil of silk net was of fingertip length and was caught to her head with a halo of seed pearls. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls, the gift of her bridegroom. Complementing her ensemble she carried a bouquet of deep red roses and white stephanotis.

Mrs. Earl Wayman of Beaverton, Ore., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a lace trimmed yellow sheer frock made on Colonial lines and carried a bouquet of pink roses and wore stephanotis in her hair.

Miss Jean Boulton of Edmonton was bridesmaid. Her frock was of apple green point d'esprit styled on Colonial lines, and she also carried a colonial bouquet.

Const. John Molnyeaux of Sylvan Lake was best man. Const. Westgate of Two Hills and Const. Cobble of Vegreville were ushers. Mrs. C. English of Vermilion, sister of the bride, supplied wedding music, while Miss Marion Morrison of Wetaskiwin was vocalist.

Following the ceremony, a reception to 50 guests was held in the Alberta Hotel. Mrs. Knies received with the bridal party wearing an aqua and white figured frock and white accessories. Her corsage was of deep pink roses.

Later, Const. and Mrs. Steininger left on a motor trip to Portland and Vancouver. On their return the couple will make their home at Red Deer.

IN RADIO PLAY

Mrs. Alan Macdonald, talented Edmonton actress, now in Toronto, who will make her debut as a radio performer over an international hook-up to be carried by the CBC on Saturday, July 4. Mrs. Macdonald will play the part of a Dutch girl on the program, arranged to honor Independence Day in the United States. The program, on which Walter Huston is also expected to take a part, will be heard in Edmonton over radio station CFRN at 12:30-1:00 p.m. Mountain War Time. Mrs. Macdonald is the former "Mickey" Clifton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Clifton of this city.

R.C.C.S. Aid Sends Parcels Men Overseas

Just because you can't knit or because you don't know first aid, doesn't mean that you can't be of some use to your country these days. There is work for every pair of hands. Conscious of the trust placed in them by the men of Canada's fighting forces, and keenly alive to the ever increasing peril that looms on the home front today, the women of Canada have banded together in war organizations, to supply comforts for their men folk on active service.

Typical of these organizations is the women's auxiliary to the R.C.C.S., formed in Edmonton in February of this year. At present the club has a paid membership of 35, with an average of 14 attending the monthly meetings in the Memorial Hall. The fourth Wednesday in the month at 2:30 p.m. has been chosen as their meeting times.

Object of this club is to carry their share in the expense of sending cigarettes and comforts to boys overseas, and toward this end, the auxiliary has become affiliated with the National Auxiliary of the R.C.C.S. with headquarters at Barriefield, Ont.

PARCELS TO R.C.C.S. MEMBERS

Hope of auxiliary members is to be able to send a percel to every Edmonton and district man in the R.C.C.S, for Christmas; to receive the name and address of every signals man that left Edmonton and district, whether or not the next of kin is able to be an active member of the auxiliary, in order to make sure that parcels are received by each and every man. Further hope of auxiliary members is to be able to keep the next of kin in touch with one another.

Col. Baker is honorary president of this organization, Mrs. C. E. Lake is president; Mrs. T. A. Hydem, vice-president; Mrs. R. H. Merryweather, secretary; Mrs. H. Robson, terasurer; Mrs. Thompson, social convener, Mrs. Hay and Mrs. Hull, assistants and Mrs. Nixon, press reporter.

FROM OVERSEAS

A letter received from overseas recently stated "I have been speaking to several of the boys from Edmonton, and they are very proud of their auxiliary. One chap especially, was so pleased that you had been in touch with his mother, who has not been well. Keep it up. Stick together, and when we get home, we will make it more than just a ladies' auxiliary."

Miss Lindsay Is Honored At Trousseau Tea

To compliment her sister, Miss Kathleen Lindsay, whose marriage to Mr. William Green takes place shortly, Mrs. Earl Robertson was hostess at a trousseau tea on Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Bouquets of pink and white peonies, and multi-hued snapdragons were used to decorate the rooms for the occasion. More than sixty guests called during the day.

Mrs. Robertson received, wearing an afternoon frock of soft violet crepe, accented with a shoulder corsage of yellow roses. Miss Lindsay chose a becoming lime green summer print, with which she wore a corsage of talisman roses.

Presiding at the tea table which was laid with a lace cloth and centred with a bowl of summer blossoms, were Mrs. E. Green, Mrs. C Sayers and Mrs. F. Coulson.

Serviteurs were Mrs. F. Waite, Mrs. L. Holmes, Mrs. K. Mitchell, Mrs. A. Cameron and Miss M. Nichelson, Mrs. C. Brownfield, Mrs. B. Nichelson and Miss Avis Dunaway showed the trousseau.

Council Collects Magazines For Servicemen

MANY Edmontonians have noticed the gay red, white and blue magazine bins standing in the foyer of the Corona hotel, in the hall of the civic block, in the Hudson's Bay Company store, and in several other stores in the city, but how many have stopped to think of all the work that goes into the collecting of magazines to send to the different training centres? The work was started by the members of the Council of Jewish Women last September under the convenership of Mrs. L Podersky, and as the months have passed their work has increased until in the month of June the women distributed 9,346 magazines to the different military centres.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmonton have been generous in donating their current magazines so that some soldier, sailor or airman can enjoy leisure time in reading. They have donated more than 50,000 magazines since the work began. These magazines have been collected, sorted, tied and addressed to many places. Many have gone to men of the merchant marine in Halifax. In Alberta they have been distributed to Grande Prairie, Camrose, Red Deer and Penhold.

TO EDMONTON CENTRES

In Edmonton the magazines have been sent to the Wings Club, Military Hospital, the H.M.C.S. "Nonsuch", R.C.N.V.R. Barracks, the Legion Hut, the Sally Ann Hut, the naval detachment at St. Joseph's College, the Veterans' Ward in the University hospital, No. 4 I.T.S., the Prince of Wales Armory, No. 3 Manning Depot, and No. 2 A. O. S.

So thoroughly has the work been done that English boys in the R. A. F. at Penhold have received English magazines and many an Australian airman thousands of miles from home has received Australian magazines and pictorials through the efforts of the Council.

For those in Edmonton who are interested in the work and would like to help, the Council wants magazines, preferably current issues. Fiction detective stories, movie magazines have proven to be popular, but every kind and variety of magazine will find an interested reader.

75 Guests Are Entertained At Tea This Week

Bouquets of iris, columbine and other summer blossoms brightened the home of Mrs. J. E. Poulton on Tuesday when she entertained more than 75 guests at a trousseau tea in honor of her daughter, Miss May Poulton, whose marriage to Mr. Charles Allison takes place Saturday.

To receive her guests, Mrs Poulton wore an afternoon frock of poudre blue floral silk with a corsage of pink roses and white gladioli. Miss Poulton chose a leaf-green paisley frock, and her corsage was of sweetheart roses.

Receiving with them, Mrs. C. E Allison wore an afternoon dress of navy printed silk, accented with a shoulder corsage of cream roses and cornflowers.

Presiding at tea urns were Mrs. S. V. Lea, Mrs. E. Cudby, Mrs. G. Marion and Mrs. O. A. Thomas. They were assisted by Miss Viola Gunderson, Miss K. Waddell, Miss Evelyn Waddell, Miss Margaret Montague and Miss Shirley Murphy.

Auxiliary Notes

Members of the women's auxiliary to the Canadian Army (A) will hold a social meeting Wednesday July 15. Although plans had been made to cancel meetings for July and August, it has now been decided to continue the monthly social meetings.

Women's Auxiliary to the Edmonton Fusiliers is meeting in the Memorial Hall, Thursday at 2:45 p.m.

There will be no meetings of the women's auxiliary to the 9th Army Troop Engineers, until September.

The W.A. to No. 19 Company C.F.C., has suspended meetings until the fall.

Regular meeting of the women's auxiliary to 61st battery R.C.A. will be held in the Memorial Hall, Tuesday at 2:30 p.m.

Today we're using blended shortening says Martha Logan

SWIFT'S Jewel SHORTENING IT'S BLENDED

MARTHA LOGAN: . . . nutrition is so important it's really exciting to know that this new blended Jewel is nutritionally more valuable.

BETTY: I'd say so! It certainly creams easily, Miss Logan.

MARTHA LOGAN: Doesn't it, Betty? Careful, Jane, only one cup of sugar in this recipe . . . chop up the banana now!

JANE: My, it's a good thing Jewel blends so well with everything! I mean we wouldn't want to waste these good things, would we?

MARTHA LOGAN: Certainly not! In wartime, we must never risk spoiling anything we cook. Remember, girls, what I told you before about Jewel . . . it's risky to pay less . . . needless to pay more.

Clip out and try this sugar-saving Jewel recipe for LIGHT BANANA CAKE
1¾ cups sifted pastry flour, or 1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 5½ tablespoons Jewel Shortening, 1 cup fine granulated sugar, 2 Brookfield Eggs, 1 cup finely-chopped banana, ¼ cup milk, 1 teaspoon pure vanilla.
Measure flour and add baking powder and salt. Cream Jewel slightly and gradually blend in sugar. Beat and add eggs, then add banana. Sift in dry ingredients alternately with milk, combining after each addition and including vanilla with last of milk. Turn into greased and floured 8-inch square pan. Bake in moderate oven, 350°, 45 minutes.

Lighter cakes, flakier pie crusts are the reward for using the new blended Jewel. It creams faster, blends better and, of course, is odourless and tasteless in cooking. Send 10c and a carton top for the fascinating Jewel Recipe Book and get a pound of Jewel in the familiar red carton! Swift Canadian Co., Limited.

Have you tried the new Jewel

Nazis Claim Yanks Fighting In Egypt

STOCKHOLM, July 3.—(BUP)—Press despatches from Berlin to Stockholm report that American troops are fighting alongside the British Imperial Army at El Alamein in Egypt. The despatches quote German advices from Egypt.

Axis Shipping Pounded Hard On Libya Run

LONDON, July 3.—(CP)—Seven Axis vessels, including an Italian destroyer and a large ammunition-laden supply ship en route to Libya, were sunk during June, in addition to many vessels damaged by British and United States air and naval patrols, it was shown in a review issued today. Among those damaged were several Italian warships.

Listed as sunk were:

An Italian destroyer of the 1,628-ton Navigatori class, three medium-sized supply ships and a small merchant ship by the submarine Turbulent, in the Mediterranean.

MUNITION SHIP

A large supply ship carrying ammunition and a medium supply ship in the Mediterranean, also by submarine action.

Other actions reported for the month included:

June 7—One of two German torpedo boats encountered off the Belgian coast hit amidships by a torpedo and almost certainly sunk.

June 14—Italian naval force of two battleships and four destroyers attacked by torpedo planes. Number of hits scored and fires caused. Second naval force of cruisers and destroyers attacked. One cruiser set on fire, one destroyer probably hit.

June 19—Large supply ship hit by torpedo as German convoy is raided, several E-boats damaged by gunfire.

June 20—150-ton patrol vessels left burning, several E-boats probably hit as light coastal patrols fight in the English Channel.

June 23—Two merchant ships hit off Cape Spartivente. One settles at stern. Destroyer also hit, causing an explosion. Large enemy ship carrying supplies in Mediterranean damaged by torpedo.

Detroit Man Found Guilty Treason Case

DETROIT, July 3.—(AP)—Stolid and as devoid of expression as he had remained through three days of trial, Max Stephan, German-born Detroit restaurant owner, last night heard a jury convict him of treason.

The six men and six women jurors brought in their verdict just 83 minutes after receiving the case from Judge Arthur J. Tuttle.

Government Attorney John W. Babcock said it was the first conviction for treason in the history of the United States.

Stephan was accused of 12 overt acts of assistance to a fleeing Nazi prisoner of war, Oberleutnant Hans Peter Krug.

These acts—the offering by Stephan, a naturalized citizen, to Krug of food, shelter, money, and entertainment on April 18 and 19—constituted "aid and comfort" in time of war to an enemy of the United States, government counsel contended.

Stephan's wife, seated at his elbow, had sobbed into a handkerchief through almost two hours of closing arguments, but when jury foreman Jerry H. Armstrong pronounced the verdict she was as unemotional as her convicted husband.

TO BE SENTENCED

Judge Tuttle said he would pronounce sentence "very shortly" when he had completed his normal procedure of gathering character reports on Stephan from probation officers.

The maximum penalty for treason is death; the minimum is five years' imprisonment or $10,000 fine, or both.

Stephan told his attorney that he would not appeal the judgment unless he is sentenced to death.

Forest Fires Are Outside Province

Forest fires burning at points outside Alberta threw a heavy pall of smoke over Edmonton and district Thursday and friday.

T. F. Blefgen, forestry director for the provincial government, said Friday that no bush or timber fires had been reported in Alberta. The recent heavy rain has lessened the danger of forest blazes, but the forestry official warned vacationists and others travelling through bush and heavily-wooded country to observe every precaution against the oubreak of fire.

Severe penalties are imposed on persons convicted on charges of starting fires or permitting them to spread.

Jap Repatriation Ship At Saigon With Canadians

TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasts), July 3.—(AP)—The Japanese liner Asama Maru docked at Saigon, French Indo-China, today to pick up 114 citizens of Canada the United States, and South American countries being repatriated in exchange for Japanese nationals who have been interned in the western hemisphere.

The vessel will sail tomorrow for Lourenco Marques, Portuguese East Africa, where the exchange is to take place.

The Asama Maru sailed from Yokohama June 25 with 416 repatriates aboard.

Giant New Guns Shown By Nazis

BERNE, Switzerland, July 3.—(AP)—Two new huge guns, one 24 inches and the other 28 inches, and a railway gun as big as a villa" have been shown in German news reels as major weapons in the German success against Sevastopol, the Berlin correspondent of Die Tat reported last night.

The dispatch related how a man easily crawled into the biggest gun.

The railway gun was said to be 26 feet to 32 feet high with a barrel 98 feet long and a shell of about 27 inches.

The Berlin radio has described the railway gun as having, so to speak, two storeys, shells and cartridges being hoisted to the upper floor . . . the size of the shells and the length of the cartridges reveal that these guns surpass anything used in the last world war."

American Airmen In Pacific Faced Odds Of 70 To 1

AN EASTERN U.S. PORT, July 3.—(AP)—A United States Navy flier said yesterday that early in the war American aviators had faced odds of 70-to-1 in the battle for South Pacific skies. "We are fighting Japanese fliers who outnumbered us 70 to 1 on the west coast of Australia," said Lieut. T. H. Moore, 30, of Eufaula, Ala. "It's no cinch fighting the Japs without enough equipment."

Stock Show Is Assured Fine List Of Entries

Entries for the livestock show staged in connection with the Edmonton Exhibition Association's summer fair are well up to the standard of 1940 both as to quality and numbers, it was announced Friday by P. W. Abbott, K.C., managing director of the Edmonton Exhibition Association.

Owing to lack of stabling accommodation in 1941 the livestock show was abandoned, but since then the Royal Canadian Air Force authorities have returned to the Exhibition Association stabling accommodation not required it is possible to hold the livestock show this year.

SEPTEMBER SHOW

The light horse and thoroughbred horse show usually held at the summer fair will not be staged until September, as the jumping ground and show rings are being used by the military authorities.

The livestock show this year will be held at the show ring constructed on the north side of the exhibition grounds.

Entries in the percheron classes this year are larger than in 1940 with the leading breeders in Alberta sending the pick of the horses. The C.P.R. Department of Natural Resources, Calgary, will have exhibits in these classes, the first time entries have been received from this source for several years. Several nwcomers to the show ring will be exhibiting in these classes also.

KEEN COMPETITION

The keenest competition from Saskatchewan breeders will be given Alberta exhibitors in the Clydesdale classes, there being entries from such well-known Saskatchewan breeders as C. and Howard Dunham, F. Fairlight, Saskatchewan; Merinus Jenson, Ryerson; Clarence J. Young, Maidstone; J. W. Cruickshank, Maidstone, and Young and Cruickshank, Maidstone.

Lawrence M. Rye, North Edmonton, heads the Alberta breeders in these classes in which several new Alberta exhibitors are showing in Edmonton for the first time.

Entries in the Belgian classes are on a par with those of 1940.

HOLSTEIN CLASSES

In the Holstein cattle classes the C.P.R. Demonstration Farm, Strathmore, is showing for the first time in several years and will have to meet the stiffest kind of competition from such northern Alberta breeders as J. W. Hosford, South Edmonton, Dr. Morton E. Hall, Bon Accord, and John Henry, Namao. Dr. Hall is making his initial appearance as an exhibitor in these classes.

In the Aberdeen Angus classes the C.P.R. Department of Natural Resources, Calgary, will meet tough competition from entries from the barns of Edwards Bros., Watford, Ontario and from entries of Northern Alberta breeders.

SHORTHORN CATTLE

In the Ayrshire, Hereford, Jersey and Shorthorn cattle classes breeders from Ontario, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Northern and Southern Alberta have listed entries.

Entries in the sheep and swine classes are larger than usual this year, with entries coming in from Airdrie, Drumheller, Calgary, Crossfield and other southern Alberta points. A substantial entry list has been secured from breeders throughout central and northern Alberta. Many new exhibitors will be showing here this summer for the first time in these classes.

Summer Classes Enrolment Light

Although the advanced registration was above last year's mark, teachers and students for the 1942 summer courses in Edmonton did not come in to register in large numbers Thursday. It is likely that there will be a heavier registration today but there have been no huge crowds at the doors of Convocation Hall.

Many of the men teachers have joined the military forces and some of the ladies have found attractive opportunities to serve their country.

The executive of the Students' Union of the Summer School are making arrangements for an initial meeting in order that the sports and recreational events may begin at an early date. Pres. G. Clarke and Social Convener Cousins were at work laying plans Thursday morning.

Movie Star Joins U.S. Coast Guard

LOS ANGELES, July 3.—(AP)—Handsome and muscular Victor Mature, who wowed the ladies in New York a year or so ago as a stage actor and thereby soared to movie fame, quit the films cold yesterday to join the coast guard. He was sworn in with 18 other recruits, and Lieut. John D Roche, 11th naval district procurement officer, said he would begin service immediately, probably in southern California waters.

Varied Docket Is Featured At Police Court

Found guilty of being in illegal possession of liquor, Peter Buss, Jr., Leduc, was remanded for sentence till Sept. 17, when he appeared before Police Magistrate Harold Hawe, K.C., during R.C.M.P. cases heard at the city police court Thursday afternoon.

Buss, who has been found guilty for a third offence on similar charges, faces a jail sentence, and was thus given an opportunity to clear up personal matters before serving his term.

Arthur J. Cunningham, St. Albert, was fined $20 and costs on an illegal possession charge.

The remaining convictions during the afternoon sitting sprang out of breaches to highway traffic regulations on rural highways. Norman Fedd, 10835 86A avenue, and Charles Rault, 9925 102 street, each were fined $10 and costs for travelling at an excessive rate of speed through unrestricted zones.

FAILED TO STOP

John P. Iokin, R.R.5, Edmonton; Andrew Sawule, Leduc, and Rudolph Becker, general delivery, South Edmonton, were each fined $5 and costs for failing to stop at the approach to a main highway.

Arthur J. Leslie, Chip Lake, paid a fine of $10 and costs for operating a commercial vehicle without the proper permit and Ferdinand Ganske, Wetaskiwin, paid a similar fine for driving on the wrong side of the highway.

Adolph Ruzycki, Mundare, was fined $10 and costs for failing to equip his truck with flares.

Public Co-Operates Safety Check-Up

Response of motorists has been so tremendous that an estimated 15,000 safety stickers will likely be issued by garages and service stations by the end of the week, Chief Constable Matt Blackwood stated Thursday. Last year only 2,700 stickers were vended.

Chief Blackwood stated that more than 12,000 official stickers have already been issued and that the response is continuing at such a rate that the 15,000 mark is expected to be reached within a few days.

The police traffic squad, under Sgt. Maj. Alex Riddle, is making systematic checkups on cars which do not carry stickers.

Response from the motoring public has been so good that traffic police have not found it necessary to do more than warn drivers of the faulty equipment, Sgt. Major Riddle stated.

Mother: "The Browns have accepted our invitation to picnic tomorrow. Would you and Sara Brown like to plan the lunch, estimate its cost, and do the buying for it together?"

Mother: "No—tell Sara you can't go to the show. I've got all my buying for the Fourth to do and you've got to clean the house. I should think Sara would have to help her mother, too."

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The advice to avoid handling the baby overmuch for fear of spoiling him or the contrary advice to give him some affectionate handling so that he knows you love him, is certain to confuse the mother.

ELDRED

"When," she asks, "is handling sufficient to promote the baby's healthful social development and when it is so excessive that it makes a selfish, demanding child of him?"

That is not a foolish question. It presents two sides of a dilemma. The baby has to be shown that we love him or he becomes one of those destitute, "institution" babies who wilt because of lack of affection. To run to him each time he whimpers and fuss over him only whets his appetite for more of such fussing. The mother has to use judgment in showing her affection so that the baby knows of his preciousness to her without also knowing that she is his helpless slave.

There are times in the baby's day which are ideally suited to fondling. It's natural to cuddle a baby when he is being nursed. That is one reason bottle-feeding can never entirely substitute for breast-feeding. Holding the baby gives the mother the opportunity to talk to him lovingly, to stroke his little, round head to hold his hand and smile at him while he eats. By such attentions he comes to know the wealth of her devotion to him.

The hour of his bath offers a second marvelous opportunity for loving attention. The mother's attitude can be a hurried exhibition of efficiency in getting the child clean, or a time for delighted splashing, for endearing talk and tender stroking of the soft, warm body. Obviously, it is the latter which emphasizes for the baby the measure of his mother's affection.

The third opportunity for cuddling comes at the end of the day when baby can be stripped of his wrinkled garments, allowed to lie on a wide, cool bed and kick and coo while his mother watches him. This is the nicest prelude to a long, peaceful sleep.

Such treatment is far different from the nervous handling which results when the mother picks up the baby every time he cries and dandles him on her knee or bounces him up and down or even rocks him when he could sleep as easily if put into his bed.

Every mother knows the great temptation to hold a baby and the opportunities she makes for doing so. But if she keeps the play periods as regular as the sleeping and eating ones the baby will develop a sense of her love for him without developing at the same time the expectation that cuddling and fondling must go on at any or all hours of the day, just because he cries for it.

Our leaflet, "The First Six Weeks," offers a suggested schedule for the small baby's day. It may be had by sending a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Tomorrow: Make baby's diet changes slowly.

Relatives Seeking Great War Veteran

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of Kyrl Miles McCarthy, veteran of the last war and former resident of Edmonton, is asked to get in touch with Maj. R. Shaw, superintendent of the Salvation Army social department, 10268 97 street, telephone 26875. Relatives are endeavoring to locate him and have asked the cooperation of the Salvation Army. McCarthy is 46, and is six feet tall and with brown eyes.

Construction Workers Plan To Organize

An open organization meeting of building and construction laborers will be held at the Labor hall on Sunday next at 3 p.m. under the auspices of the Laborers' International Union, No. 92, it was announced Friday by Carl E. Berg, general representative of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

Dissatisfaction is apparent in the ranks of the common laborer at present, stated Mr. Berg, and this dissatisfaction has reached the point that a walk-out occurred on a job during the week.

SEEK HIGHER WAGES

The dissatisfaction is caused by the low rate of wages prevailing, and it is anticipated that further walk-outs will occur unless steps are taken to stabilize and increase wages to conform with the present high cost of living standards, Mr. Berg stated.

Reports will be given at the meeting by W. "Paddy" Griffin, president of Laborers' Union No. 92, and by Mr. Berg on communications and telegrams which have been exchanged between the Edmonton Trades and Labor Council and labor department officials at Ottawa.

They will report also on discussion between Trades Council officials and local contractors on wage rates, as well as on projects on the Alaska highway and in the North West Territories.

Edmonton Officer Reported Missing In East War Zone

Son of Dr. and Mrs. Forrester Macdonald of 11008 97 avenue, Capt. L. Vance Macdonald, is missing after operations in the Middle East on June 14, according to word received by his parents.

In view of the heavy losses in prisoners suffered by the British in Libya it is felt the former Edmonton man may be a prisoner of war.

Capt. Macdonald, who graduated in medicine from the University of Alberta, has been in England since 1937.

He was appointed to accompany the Duke and Duchess on a world cruise. The war halted the cruise and Capt. Macdonald enlisted in the Royal Army Medical Corps. He was wounded in the evacuation of Dunkerque.

Hot Picnics Are The Mode

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

The picnic of yesteryear usually centered around a shoe-box filled with sandwiches. But today, vacuum jugs that will keep food hot or cold for hours have done much to change the style of picnic lunch. You can carry soup, stew, chili, or any other food in a vacuum jug and have it all ready to serve hot.

But sandwiches still enjoy wide popularity as picnic fare. They should be attractive in appearance as well as pleasing in flavor, and above all, substantial and nourishing. Odds and ends of cheese, leftover meats, eggs, fish, dried fruits, nuts and vegetables, such as peppers, lettuce and onions may be used in making savory fillings.

Outdoor cooking is always popular. Everyone enjoys the fragrance of meat browning in the open air. Here's one of Jimmy Beard's delicious outdoor recipes for your Sunday picnic:

IRISH HAMBURGERS

Four cups cold corned beef chopped medium fine, 2 cups chopped boiled potatoes, 1 medium onion chopped fine, pepper, pinch of nutmeg.

Mix these ingredients with the fingers and form into cakes. Brush with butter and slip into a broiler. Cook very slowly over hot coals, brushing with butter frequently. Serve eggs with these Irish Hamburgers if desired. Try coleslaw and a good, pungent sauce with them, and maybe hot biscuit. Or else fried cabbage with boiled potatoes cooked with it.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Stewed strawberries and rhubarb, country sausage, wholewheat muffins, fruit jam, coffee, milk.

PICNIC DINNER: Cold fried chicken or hot Irish hamburgers, warm buns, sliced raw onions, mixed pickles, casserole of scalloped potatoes, celery hearts, tomatoes, frosted cup cakes, fruit, nut cookies, milk, coffee, soda "pop".

SUPPER: Toasted cheese sandwiches, lettuce and tomato salad, preserved fruit, layer cake, tea, milk.

Debunker

To owners of Boston bulldogs, it may be dissappointing to know that these dogs are not bulldogs at all, but terriers. They are American-made dogs, with ancestors of both bull and terrier, according to L. A. Fuertes' "Book of Dogs" In 1891 the American Kennel Club refused to recognize them, because they were cross-breeds, but in 1893 they became registered under the name "Boston Terrier", and are the only breed of dogs that are strictly American.

Special Investigator

By Blanche Roberts

Judith Kingsly and Tom Burke, employees of an airplane factory, are en route to the west coast. When foreign agents kidnap Tom from an airliner, Judith leaves the plane with the new bomber plans which Tom had slipped to her. Pursued by the agents, she finds Tom in a cabin, leaves him fighting with his captors, thumbs two rides and after many narrow escapes, eludes the pursuers and reaches San Diego.

CHAPTER VII

IT was after 1 o'clock in the afternoon when Judith opened her tired and swollen eyes. She hadn't intended to sleep so long, but once asleep she could not waken. Every bone and muscle in her exhausted body ached. It took all her strength and will power to get out of bed.

She walked to the window and looked down on the crowded street. For no apparent reason her heart quickened its beat and intuition told her the car parked across from the hotel belonged to the spy ring. A man walked slowly up and down the street, occasionally glancing at the hotel entrance.

"They have found out in some way that I am here." A gleam of light came into her eyes as she turned from the window to the telephone.

"Please send me a maid," she told the man at the desk. And while she waited, she mused: "I've come this far on my own and I can go the rest of the way. I'll deliver these plans in person and nothing is going to stop me."

To the maid she said, "Could I rent a uniform from you?"

"Oh, yes, miss," the girl replied eagerly at the sight of the bill in Judith's hand. "I'll get it for you now."

Judith left the hotel by the servants' entrance without being accosted and found a cab. An hour later she entered the manager's office at the west coast factory.

He looked up, startled at seeing a smiling, redheaded maid standing there. He cleared his throat while Judith enjoyed his embarrassment.

"I don't blame you for being amazed, Mr. Mathews. I'm Judith Kingsly of the eastern office. I have the plans Mr. Burke was bringing to you. Sorry they are late in arriving."

Mathews got hastily to his feet and came around the desk to take her hands. There was deep admiration in his eyes.

"You got through!" he exclaimed, overjoyed. "When we heard Tom Burke was missing we had just about given up hopes for the plans. Mr. Watson has been frantic about you. You'd better call the home office right away. Here"—he pushed her into a chair—"I'll have the call put right through for you."

"But what happened to Tom Burke?" Judith asked fearfully. "Is he all right?"

Matthews shook his head slowly. "We don't know. The plane was located yesterday and brought in. The passengers told us what happened before and after your disappearance, but they are all hazy about the looks of the men."

"The last time I saw Tom," said Judith, her voice low and her eyes misty, "he was fighting with his captor. He ordered me to leave. I had the plans. He dropped them in my seat when they were taking him off the liner. The spies had him in a shack near where the plane was brought down."

"The FBI men found the shack. It was empty, of course."

"Of course," she repeated. "They would have Tom with them. So he must be all right," she said, more for her own benefit than for the manager's.

When the long distance call came through, Judith gave Watson a brief resume of her experiences.

"I didn't know I was letting you in for all that," Watson told her contritely. "I want you to stay out there in California for a rest. Three weeks' vacation—and a raise, too."

She hung up, and lifted sad, speculative eyes to Mathews.

But immediately another idea made her eyes sparkle with adventure. "I can help find Tom Burke and the spy ring. I'm sure of it."

"How?"

She shrugged her slim shoulders. "Just leave it to me. Those spies have been on my trail constantly. Just because I have delivered the plans doesn't mean they will let me go free. I rather imagine they'd like to get hold of me if for no other reason than to put me out of the picture."

Mathews sat silent and concerned. Judith walked to a window and looked out.

"I wouldn't think of letting you take such a chance," Mathews exploded. "I'm going to send you back east in a private plane from the field here."

Judith shook her head.

"Tom's life may be at stake," she said crisply, then added smilingly, "Besides, I've just been promised three weeks' vacation."

"Let's hear your plan, Miss Kingsly."

"Those men won't let Tom go—not while he knows things they can use, or while he knows their hideouts. If I can help the federal men catch the spies and rescue Tom, I think it is my duty— a duty I want to perform."

She put a hand on Mathews' arm. "The only way to find Burke quickly is for them to take me. You can have someone trail me, can't you?"

He nodded, but there was a deep frown between his eyes.

"I don't like it," he said stubbornly. "There is no telling what might happen to you."

"I think I realize that more than any one else," she answered.

"There is no guarantee that they won't kill you before you can be rescued. We just can't take that risk."

"I insist, Mr. Mathews," she told him firmly. "I'll do it anyway, you know," she added defiantly. "Tom Burke would do the same for me and not even ask permission."

"Any man who had ever laid eyes on that red head of yours would fight for you, Miss Kingsly."

She blushed, but continued her argument.

"You see, I know three of the men in the ring—the ones on the plane. If they aren't caught, I'd live in terror all my life. They would know I could identify them and they would want me out of the way. And as long as they are at large, our country is in real danger."

Mathews threw up his hands.

"All right," he laughed. "I never could win an argument with a pretty woman. I'll get in touch with the government men right now."

She grinned, elated over her quick victory. As soon as he put through his call, she said:

"I'd like some money. My boss said nothing was too good for me."

"That's right, young lady. We will take down the serial numbers just to be on the safe side. They might take it away from you."

"And I'd like a new outfit to wear. This maid's uniform doesn't do me justice." She laughed. "I want to at least look my best if I am to be captured by the enemy. I might be able to flirt my way out. Can you order something sent here right away?"

"Here"—he handed her the telephone—"get anything you want. I'll send my secretary to help you."

Just before 5 o'clock she was ready to leave the plane factory. She said goodbye to the manager, a bright smile on her face, and walked out, head up. She knew there was a man watching her, ready to take up the trail if anything happened to her. She felt secure and unafraid as she stepped into a waiting taxi.

"Take the ocean way back to the hotel," she told the driver. She did not even look back to see if she were being followed.

In today's hand the slam is made by an elimination throw-in. Dummy wins the first trick with the club ace, and the six of clubs is ruffed out as a simple precaution. Two rounds of trumps are pulled, then the three top diamonds are cashed. As the ten of diamonds does not clear, declarer leads a spade and ducks with either the ten or queen. East is compelled to return spades into the major tenace, or lead a club, giving the declarer a ruff and sluff.

The hand was No. 11 of the intercollegiate championship contest. Many South players missed the par through failing to ruff out the club six at once. East then had a safe club exit when in with a spade. Some South players who omitted this precaution made a good recovery and snared the contract by leading all their trumps. West usually fell into a pseudo-squeeze and let go a diamond.

The intended result was reached perfectly by Henry A. Skinner, Jr., and Wallace Tufford of the University of Wyoming. Other western participants in the contest were Arizona, Idaho, Minnesota, Nebraska, Oklahoma A. and M., Oklahoma University, and Wisconsin.

C.P.R. Reports Western Crop Outlook Bright

WINNIPEG, July 3.—Seldom has the western crop outlook appeared so bright as at present and with a period of warmer, brighter weather normally expected at this time of year to promote faster crop development, prospects could not be better. This is the finding of the Canadian Pacific Railway agricultural department through the company's western agents. Generous and general rains have fallen in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta during the week so that moisture conditions continue good across the entire prairies.

Higher temperatures are reported but still warmer weather would be welcome and would increase the upward growth which is below normal for this time of year. In most areas the fields show thick, even stands. The grain is deeply rooted and a large acreage of wheat and some coarse grains are now in shot blade. An increased number of districts report wheat and in some cases early sown barley now heading out.

In Manitoba wheat ranges in height to 24 inches with an average of 14½ and about 55 per cent in shot blade; in Saskatchewan it is 12 inches and 32 to 35 per cent in shot blade, and in Alberta 12 inches and 23 to 25 per cent in shot blade.

GRASSHOPPERS CURTAILED

Oats and barley are between nine and ten inches high in all three provinces. Wet weather has curtailed the grasshopper activity and little further damage from this pest is reported. Some leaf rust has appeared on wheat in Manitoba near Brandon, cutting of hay and sweet clover has started in scattered districts. Livestock and pasturage are in good condition.

Clear weather has improved crop conditions in British Columbia where all ground crops are now making rapid growth. Tree fruits are developing and cherries are ripening fast and moving out in increasing volume.

Thinning of apples has begun and raspberry picking will be started this week. Wheat, coarse grains and peas give indications of heavy crops and the root crops are promising heavy yields.

Hlynka Scores Fiscal Policy Of Government

OTTAWA, July 3.—(CP)—Anthony Hlynka (New Democracy, Vegreville), speaking in the budget debate in the House of Commons Thursday, said the government was taking advantage of war time patriotism "to saddle the people of Canada with a debt that is expected to reach $12,000,000,000 at the end of the war—a mortgage upon every man, woman and child for generations to come."

Finance Minister Ilsley had performed a good job in his effort to make an "ox cart" financial system serve wartime needs, and was a man of great ability, said Mr. Hlynka.

SCRAP BUDGET

But he had the opportunity to become the greatest finance minister of all times if he would scrap this budget and bring in one that would tell the people "that we have come to the point where the life of the nation is more important than financial considerations."

Mr. Hlynka said the compulsory loan feature of the new taxation would encourage people to continue the present "debt-money" system. The financial institutions would "hitch" people to more debt after the war.

He commended the government on appropriating a large share of the national income for war purposes. But he protested the way the money was raised, especially in regard to the "borrowing aspect." More than 50 per cent of requirements, or $1,850,000,000, would be raised by loan in 1942-43, thus placing this amount in the form of a "mortgage" on that amount on the Canadian people.

"How can you give the people a new deal with the old set of marked cards?" said Mr. Hlynka.

Lack Material Cause Of Drop Construction

Building permits for the first six months of 1942 amounted to $1,096,110 compared with $1,108,910 for the same period last year, a statement issued Friday by John Martland city architect, disclosed. This is a decrease of $12,800 for the 1942 period.

Chief reason for the decline, Mr. Martland stated, was the difficulty in recent weeks in obtaining lumber and other building supplies.

During the six months period of 1942, 273 houses were constructed, the total value of the permits issued being $594,855 compared with 289 for the same period last year. The cost of the dwellings erected in the first six months of 1941 was $661,710.

During the 1942 period five public buildings have been erected at a cost of $176,750, compared with three last year at a cost of $50,585. Fifteen commercial buildings were constructed in the six months of this year, against 25 last year. Cost of the 1942 construction in this building category was $52,400, and last year $102,560.

ONE APARTMENT

One apartment costing $9,500 has been erected during the 1942 period compared with two last year. The value of the 1941 permits was $47,200. Alteration and repair permits issued during the six months period this year amounted to $245,380, compared with $230,800 last year.

Sales of city owned land by the city land department during the first six months of 1942 amounted to $168,887 compared with $145,703 last year, an increase of $23,184, while rents collected in the 1942 period amounted to $81,127 compared with $81,096 last year.

Tax collections for the 1942 six-months period amounted to $2,473,111.64 compared with $2,406,129.02, an increase of $63,982.62.

Farmer Is Believed Victim Horse Kick

Believed the victim of a kick by a horse, Andrew Sorenson, 66, of Valentine, Alta., was found dead at his farm gate Thursday night, according to information received by R.C.M.P. Superintendent Bird, from Constable Belzer of the Rochfort Bridge detachment, Friday.

The report states that Sorenson was seen driving homeward with a load of chop about an hour before his body was found. It is presumed that as he descended the wagon to open the gate, he was kicked in the forehead by one of the horses.

The team was found in the yard entangled in the harness. Death is believed to have been accidental.

THE TOWN

A recent issue of the Alberta Gazette announces the appointment of His Honor Clinton J. Ford, Calgary, a judge of the District Court of Southern Alberta, as a member of the Calgary Police Commission.

L. A. Nickols, district manager, London Life Insurance Co., will leave Saturday for Chicago to attend a special training school for insurance managers. The school is sponsored by the Life Insurance Sales Research Bureau of Hartford, Conn.

A capacity attendance is expected at the Y.M.C.A. Services Club dance for men of the forces on Saturday evening, when boys in khaki will be especially feted in honor of Army Week. An invitation is also being extended to soldiers from south of the border.

New safety regulations under the Factories Act are announced in the last issue of the Alberta Gazette governing the drilling, cleaning, repairing, operation and maintenance of oil and gas well drilling plants, rigs and equipment. General requirements of these regulations are that where gas or oil wells are being drilled, no derrick, building, machinery, tools or other equipment shall be used which are unsafe, unsuitable, or which are not so constructed, protected, placed and operated as to afford reasonable safety from accidents to persons employed in or around such wells.

Most Polish schools have been requisitioned as military barracks by the Nazis.

Khaki was the order Friday in Edmonton as Reserve Army Day was observed as part of the general observance of Army Week.

All officers and other ranks in the Canadian Army (Reserve) wore their uniforms and as a result there was scarcely an office or shop in the city that did not have one or more of the staff in uniform.

The Reserve Army has been assuming a role of ever-increasing importance as the menace of hostile attack to Canada's very shores increases.

Army officials here stated there has been a splendid response to the appeal to invite soldiers to the homes of citizens during Army Week. Active Army men stationed here have been deluged with invitations to eat out, it is stated.

sense from a Japanese standpoint, Kiralfy thinks.

He therefore thinks the enemy actions in and around Alaska are "strategic and preparatory."

In an attack on Siberia the Aleutians, and the Alaskan area in general, are of particular importance. The area in question is well suited for both impeding American-Russian co-operation and for menacing northeastern Siberia. By using the Aleutians and parts of Alaska as a base of operations the Japs would compel Russian bombers to head north.

This would minimize the danger of attack by air against the vulnerable Japanese cities, a nightmare to the Japanese high command.

But while these operations are in progress the whole Alaskan area is under danger, according to the writer, who has this to say on the subject:

"While we cannot countenance the loss of Alaska, we realize that the war as a whole cannot be won in that territory. This does not mean, however, that the Japanese could not cause us serious annoyance in Alaska. The fogs that enabled them to land in Attu and Kiska Islands at the western extremity of the Aleutians would also veil their disembarkations on the west coast of Alaska and there they might long remain undetected.

"These operations might be in the nature of large-scale infiltrations aimed at seizing the coastal towns from the rear.

"Significance might attach to the fact that the Japanese delayed their attack upon the Aleutians until much of the west coast of Alaska had become ice-free.

"Relatively small enemy forces might be able to live on the land with a minimum supply of provisions from home and make clearings for temporary landing fields. They might even be able to make their way up the Yukon river in order to strike at such American airfields as the one at Fairbanks, whose vicinity can be reached by small boats from the ocean.

"In many respects, Alaska may be likened to the extensive, undeveloped regions of the far east that the Japanese were able to over-run.

"Natural obstacles greatly complicate the problem of the defensive forces," Kiralfy concludes.

City Firm Moves Premises When Building Is Sold

Oliver Farm Equipment Limited, now located at 12116 104 avenue, is moving to premises in the McKenney Building at 104 street and 102 avenue, formerly occupied by the Miner Rubber Co. Ltd., according to A. R. Fee, manager of the Oliver firm, which will be open for business at the new location on August 1.

This move has been necessitated by the purchase by the federal department of national defence of the Oliver Farm Equipment Limited building, which will be used by the department for the duration of the war.

It was reported last week that the purchase price of the building was $100,000.

13-Point War Program Drawn By Ukrainians

A 13-point war program designed to serve as a guide to the membership of the Ukrainian Canadian Association (formerly the Ukrainian Association to Aid the Fatherland) in strengthening Canada's war effort was unanimously adopted at the association's first national convention held last month in Winnipeg, according to a resume of the convention received by local members of the association Friday.

The first point suggests that the association direct its activities towards the establishment of unity among Ukrainian Canadians and to work towards the creation of a better understanding between Ukrainian Canadians and all Canadian people.

Encouragement of Ukrainian Canadians to join Canada's armed forces; co-operation with officials of recruiting depots; support of and clarification of all mobilization measures of the Canadian government; the encouraging of joining the reserve armies, home defence corps and air raid precaution units by those not eligible for active service, were among other points adopted at the convention.

SUPPORT CAMPAIGN

The convention agreed to support the Canadian Red Cross and other war campaigns for the Canadian, British and allied armed forces.

The 13th point provided that the organization expose and combat racial discrimination and hatred and cultivate friendship, goodwill and unity among the different racial groups in Canada.

Student Help Being Studied By Government

Provincial government officials are now studying a proposal made by the federal minister of labor that the province and dominion provide $12,000 on a 50-50 basis to assist University of Alberta students entering first-year courses in engineering and science, it was reported Friday.

This proposed amount would be in addition to a previous amount of $14,000 planned to be spent by the two governments to help students needing financial assistance. Of this total, $10,000 was provided for students in senior years and $4,000 for any year.

Announcement of the proposed new cash assistance plan follows a conference of Canadian university representatives in Ottawa recently at which the dominion government was asked to adopt a program to assist first-year students.

The stand had been taken formerly that such grants should not be available to first-year students as there would be a certain amount of "weeding out" of those unable to meet the required standards for courses, and that should not be given before the second year.

FIRST-YEAR AID NEEDED

University authorities pointed out, however, that financial assistance was necessary for first-year students in order to boost student enrollment for later work. In this connection it was stated that care would be taken to select only those students who were deserving of cash aid.

Students who receive help in this way are required to make their services available for the national war effort after completing their courses.

City Bridge Is Being Repaired Near Buildings

Reconstruction of abutments and other repair work is proceeding on the government-owned 107 street bridge spanning 97 avenue and located at the northeast entrance to the legislative building grounds. It is expected the work will be finished this month.

New cement abutments have been poured and other reinforcement work has been done. The old abutments were crumbling, throwing the bridge out of kilter.

The work is being done by employees of the department of public works.

Three Fines Imposed

Three fines were imposed in city police court Friday morning when all but three cases were either withdrawn by Crown Prosecutor C. G. Purvis, K.C., or dismissed by Police Magistrate A. I. Millar, K.C.

A man and a woman charged with drunkenness were each fined $20 and costs and Fred Proniuk, Edmonton, was fined $3 and costs for operating a cleaning and pressing establishment without the proper license.
